AMERICANS BEARING BRUNT OF FIGHTING ON MARNE RIVER

Using Heavy Masses of Men, Enemy is Able to Cross Stream and Make Small Gains Despite Counter Attacks By Our Men—Lines Hold in Champagne.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
With the American Army At The Marne, July 15.—(11 a. m.)—The Germans launched a new offensive at six o'clock this morning, during which they succeeded in crossing the Marne, establishing bridgeheads on the southern bank.

The emplacement of fifty pontoons enabled the Germans to throw overpowering reinforcements into the fight, but Americans, counter attacked and captured a few German prisoners.

The counter blow gave time for a withdrawal of artillery. The Germans then assaulted again, advancing further, while the Americans organized another counter attack.

The German attack on Vaux, (held by Americans west of Chateau Thierry), which was delivered early in the morning, was a feint.

The Germans succeeding in getting a temporary foothold in the village, but the Americans immediately delivered a counter thrust and drove them out.

The Americans then withdrew their lines a quarter of a mile in a hilly position, capturing some German prisoners. The Germans began their attack from the east of Chateau Thierry as far as the district north of Dormans. The assaults were preceded by a terrific bombardment with gas and high explosive shells.

From Condelong Krupp guns co-operated in the attack, shelling towns as far east of Rheims. The Germans assaulted the Allied positions in Champagne also but the French and their American supports are holding out firmly.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, July 15.—The American Forces in France, engaged today to the greatest extent since the United States entered the war, are living up to the highest traditions of the service. High army officers made this very plain this afternoon in discussing the scanty information so far obtainable regarding the battle, in Germany's latest drive, in her effort to reach Paris.

There are very few of the reports available as yet, regarding the fighting. The army was today more or less dependant on the reports of the press associations. But these reports, taken in connection with the known facts, resulted in no feeling of gloom. The Americans admitted that the operations but they are in better shape to withstand the Hun assaults than they were four weeks ago. Their forces are much stronger, and they have far more artillery ready for their support, officials say.

There was a general belief today that the present assaults will be followed by still heavier German operations in the north, where it is believed the Germans are again ready to try to hack their way through to the channel ports. In that sector there are very strong American units who are supporting the Anglo-French there.

Directly in the path of today's advance is supposed to be Major Omar Bundy's second division, made up of regular army forces and the Marines. In addition other American units undoubtedly are taking part in the battle which is expected here to develop into a combined attempt to break through towards Paris and to cut the lines of communication with the American-British and Belgian forces in the north.

Officials said today that it was far too early to forecast the outcome. They are hopeful that the line will hold with only slight recessions. But it is pointed out here that this is a matter for General Foch to determine. He has sufficient forces available to maintain present positions if he believes it the best policy to pay the price. If he does not, then, officials here who are familiar with the exact situation, say, he can be depended on to withdraw his men slowly and in good order meanwhile inflicting stupendous losses upon the enemy.

Army officials declared that the reports were very reassuring. The French war office statement that the French are sustaining their positions with great gallantry indicates that they have not been ordered to retire. It will be no surprise to officers here to learn that among the other objectives of the new German advance is the shell swept city of Rheims. It is assumed here that practically the entire first army corps, which is under Major General Hunter Leggett, will be brought into action in the present operations.

GERMANS BEGIN GREAT DRIVE ON FRENCH AND AMERICANS

In Fifth Grand Offensive of Year Accompanied by Terrific Cannonade Huns Have as Yet Made no Progress—Americans in Thick of It.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, July 15.—The new German offensive today did not take the Allies by surprise. This time the attack was expected.

The Germans were held between Rheims and the Argonne forest, where they were able to make only slight and insignificant progress at the cost of terrible sacrifices.

Simultaneously with the opening of the offensive German infantry on the left wing entered the action early in the morning, attacking after a brief but violent bombardment.

Everywhere the Tenthons met with the firmest resistance. The right wing had not yet entered the actions toward Chateau Thierry when this was written.

The Germans are striking again for Paris.

Following a cannonade so terrific that thunder of the guns could be heard for many miles, the Germans launched a series of assaults over a fifty mile front, from the sector of Chateau-Thierry on the Marne river, to the Mid-Champagne region.

This was the fifth separate offensive that the Germans have launched on the western front this year, and the early reports from the battle emphasized the fury of the struggle.

Americans, holding part of the Marne, lie east of the Marne at Chateau Thierry are bearing their brunt of the fighting. This is the first time that the Americans have been called upon in force to help withstand a great German blow.

Fighting with all their traditional gallantry, the French met shock for shock and were sustaining their main positions when the French war office reported upon the battle at noon today.

Rheims, which stands at the apex of the French salient on the eastern flank of the Marne front, is the center of the fighting.

The Germans are struggling hard to overwhelm the French defenders of Rheims and thus straighten their lines by overrunning the city.

This last German blow fell at the point where the Tenthons' lines extended nearest to Paris.

(Chateau Thierry is only 48 miles from Paris.)

The local objectives of the Kaiser's army—not taking into consideration their evident hope of advancing towards Paris—were evidently the following:

1—Capture Rheims and compel a retirement of the French lines in the western part of the Champagne region and between Rheims and the Marne.

2—Cross the Marne and seize the important Châlons-Paris railway.

3—Drive against the next lateral railway line of communication running eastward from Paris through Vitry. The first German drive towards the Marne this year (of which the present offensive may be considered the twin) began on May 27, and fighting lasted nearly a fortnight.

The Germans drove southwards as the Marne and a few detachments got to the southern bank, but they were quickly annihilated.

Then the Germans settled down to a long period of preparation, during which the allied military experts were kept guessing as to where the next German drive might come. It was believed it would be delivered in the north against the Americans and the Channel ports.

The Germans took their position along ten miles of heights along the northern bank.

The southern bank was held by the French and Americans.

During the period of comparative quiet on the Aisne-Marne front, the Germans inaugurated an offensive southeast of Montdidier, and followed this up by an unsuccessful attempt to take Rheims by storm. Neither of these succeeded in reaching their objectives.

The preliminary bombardment made it plain that the Germans had concentrated a vast amount of artillery for this drive.

The Germans evidently are striking in three directions: In the Chateau Thierry zone they are attacking towards the west; on the Marne and in Champagne they are attempting to press south, while southwest of Rheims the nature of the battle front compels them to concentrate their pressure in a southeasterly direction.

The 1918 western front offensives fell on the following dates:

March 21—Picardy.

April 9—Flanders.

May 27—Aisne-Marne front.

June 9—Montdidier-Aisne front.

July 15—Marne-Champagne front.

GERMANS BEGIN GREAT DRIVE ON FRENCH AND AMERICANS

In Fifth Grand Offensive of Year Accompanied by Terrific Cannonade Huns Have as Yet Made no Progress—Americans in Thick of It.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, July 15.—The new German offensive today did not take the Allies by surprise. This time the attack was expected.

The Germans were held between Rheims and the Argonne forest, where they were able to make only slight and insignificant progress at the cost of terrible sacrifices.

Simultaneously with the opening of the offensive German infantry on the left wing entered the action early in the morning, attacking after a brief but violent bombardment.

Everywhere the Teutons met with the firmest resistance. The right wing had not yet entered the action toward Chateau Thierry when this was written.

The Germans are striking again for Paris.

Following a cannonade so terrific that thunder of the guns could be heard for many miles, the Germans launched a series of assaults over a fifty mile front, from the sector of Chateau-Thierry on the Marne river, to the Mid-Champagne region.

This was the fifth separate offensive that the Germans have launched on the western front this year, and the early reports from the battle emphasized the fury of the struggle.

Americans, holding part of the Marne, east of the Marne at Chateau Thierry are bearing their brunt of the fighting. This is the first time that the Americans have been called upon in force to help withstand a great German blow.

Fighting with all their traditional gallantry, the French met shock for shock and were sustaining their main positions when the French war office reported upon the battle at noon today.

Rheims, which stands at the apex of the French salient on the eastern flank of the Marne front, is the center of the fighting.

The Germans are struggling hard to overwhelm the French defenders of Rheims and thus straighten their lines by overrunning the city.

This last German blow fell at the point where the Teutons' lines extend nearest to Paris.

(Chateau Thierry is only 18 miles from Paris.)

The local objectives of the Kaiser's army—not taking into consideration their evident hope of advancing towards Paris—were evidently the following:

1.—Capture Rheims and compel a retirement of the French lines in the western part of the Champagne region and between Rheims and the Marne.

2.—Cross the Marne and seize the important Châlons-Paris railway.

3.—Drive against the next lateral railway line of communication running eastward from Paris, through Vitry. The first German drive towards the Marne this year (of which the present offensive may be considered the twin) began on May 27, and fighting lasted nearly a fortnight.

The Germans drove southward as the Marne and a few detachments got to the southern bank, but they were quickly annihilated.

Then the Germans settled down to a long period of preparation, during which the allied military experts were kept guessing as to where the next German drive might come. It was believed it would be delivered in the north against the Americans and the Channel ports.

The Germans took their position along ten miles of heights along the northern bank.

The southern bank was held by the French and Americans.

During the period of comparative quiet on the Aisne-Marne front the Germans inaugurated an offensive southwest of Meudon, and followed this up by an unsuccessful attempt to take Rheims by storm. Neither of these succeeded in reaching their objectives.

The preliminary bombardment made it plain that the Germans had concentrated a vast amount of artillery for this drive.

The Germans evidently are striking in three directions: In the Chateau Thierry zone they are attacking towards the west; on the Marne and in Champagne they are attempting to press south, while southwest of Rheims the nature of the battle front compels them to concentrate their pressure in a southeasterly direction.

The 1918 western front offensives fell on the following dates:

March 21—Picardy.

April 9—Flanders.

May 27—Aisne-Marne front.

June 9—Montdidier-Aisne front.

July 15—Marne-Champagne front.

CHATEAU THIERRY FIGHTING CONTINUES

By Telegram to The Freeman.

With the American Army at the Marne, July 15.—Following an intense bombardment with gas shells, the Germans delivered a heavy attack at Vaux (west of Chateau Thierry) this morning. Fighting continues.

The Meaux region has been heavily bombarded.

The Americans, attacking in conjunction with the French on the Marne front on the night of July 1-2, captured Vaux by storming. Subsequent German counter attacks were repulsed by the Americans.

For some days it has been reported that the Germans were massing reinforcements opposite the American front in the Vaux sector.

Detective Shot Junkman.

Joseph Levinson, 42 years old, a Newburgh junkman, was fatally shot Friday evening near Scott's Corners in the town of Montgomery. The shooting apparently was done by Fred Roselle, a special agent of the C. N. E. Railroad, who claims he did not shoot to hit Levinson, but merely to frighten him so he might be taken and questioned with reference to goods which he had on an automobile truck. Levinson had left his truck when pursued by the detectives, apparently acting under the belief that he was being attacked by highwaymen.

POTATO CROP IN DANGER AGAIN FROM PLANT LICE

Potato Growers Beware—Potato Aphids or Plant Lice Threaten to Destroy Many Potato Fields in Ulster County—Farm Bureau Gives Control Measures Which Must be Promptly Taken if Crop is to be Saved.

A year ago this summer little aphids, also known as plant lice made their appearance in large numbers, ruining many potato fields and doing considerable damage in others. These "Pesty Critters," as one grower termed them, are again becoming quite numerous. They are now present in nearly every community in the county.

The lice may be green, pink or of a greyish tint in color. They attack the leaves and tender tips of the plants. They are very small but may be easily seen on the under sides of leaves, oftentimes in large quantities. Under favorable conditions the lice multiply with great rapidity and in a few days can do a great deal of damage. The foliage taken on a shiny, sticky, appearance, due to the presence of the honey dew secreted by the aphids, growth stops and in many cases the plants are killed outright.

The Control.
Such sprays as arsenate of lead, Paris green and pyrox are absolutely of no use in trying to control plant lice. These sprays are poisonous and will only serve their purpose when taken into the body of the insect. As the aphids or plant lice are not biting but sucking insects they can only be controlled by using a contact spray.

They can be killed by spraying with "Black Leaf 40," tobacco extract, used at the rate of 1/2 pint in 50 gallons of water or Bordeaux mixture. When water is used 3 or 4 pounds of soap should be added to each 50 gallons. Do not use soap when Bordeaux mixture is used.

Tobacco extract kills by contact and will not kill any lice not actually wet by the spray. As most of the lice are on the under side of the leaves it is necessary to have the spray directed upward. Some potato sprayers have the nozzles fixed to do this.

Watch your potatoes carefully and if the lice appear in injurious numbers destroy them before the vines become badly stunted. If you desire further information relative to this pest, inquire of the Farm Bureau, 74 John St., Kingston, N. Y.

Spoke at Clinton Ave. M. E. Church.
"If these boys are a fair sample of what we are sending into our army and navy, America will surely win this war," said the Rev. Otto Brand, field secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital of Brooklyn. Mr. Brand spoke on the war work of that institution at the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church on Sunday night. Since early in January an average of 100 sick United States sailors have been cared for daily at the hospital. Most of these boys are from the south and far west. Consequently they are dependent upon strangers for many of the extra comforts they desire. Recreation rooms, provided with pool tables and Victrolas, have been placed at their disposal, and auto parties are arranged for almost daily for the convalescent patients. Owing to the high cost of food, fuel and medical supplies, the hospital for the past three years has had difficulty in meeting expenses. Its annual budget now amounts to almost $200,000 and much of this must come from voluntary gifts. Its territory extends far into New York state, and into parts of five contiguous states. Kingston comes within the bounds of its activities and has furnished patients. Much free work is done for the poor, and all are cared for regardless of racial or denominational differences.

Learn When to Be Silent.
The union of good talker and listener is irresistible. That should teach us when to be silent. We have made progress when we realize that it is unnecessary to continually be explaining everything in detail. We flee from the statistics, feed, and the too personal "I" in conversation, personally reiterating the "I have done" and "I have not done"—an attitude significant perhaps of women's penchant for failing to grasp ideas in a large way.

WAR INSURANCE.

All Banks in France Appreciate Government Bureau.

Secretary McAdoo has received the following cablegram from Gen. Pershing:

"All ranks of the American Expeditionary Forces appreciate deeply the generous measure the Government has taken to provide insurance for their families, in proof of which more than 90 per cent of men have taken out insurance. To wisely provide for their loved ones heartens our men and strengthens the bonds that unite the army and people in our strong determination to triumph in our most righteous cause."

The bureau of War-Risk Insurance up to June 28 has written $21,566,000,000 insurance, representing 2,570,455 applications. The average amount of insurance applied for is $8,387, and in some battalions and regiments, some in France and some here, every man has taken out insurance. In some units every man is insured for the maximum of $10,000.

One of the American generals says that this government insurance is an element of victory. All Liberty Bond holders and all purchasers of War Savings Stamps may feel that they had a part in this insurance—the most just and humane provision ever made by any nation for its fighting men.

SAW FIGHTING.
Writes Marine, But Is Happy and Has Best of Eats.

On Active Service With the American Expeditionary Forces, June 21, 1918.

Dear Mother:
No doubt you think it a long time since last I wrote, but I think it longer. Nevertheless, it is my first opportunity, as I have been very busy. I suppose you have been watching the papers very close the last few days. Well, I surely have seen some action and would like to tell you all about it. I will say I have had some sleepless days and nights, some eatless, but not fightless. Just at present I am having all the eats and smokes I can take care of, such as cakes, chocolate, canned goods, cigars and tobacco, which we receive through the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. All this is aside from our meals, which are the best. My old pal, Ellery, is still with me. I am wondering if any of the fellows from around home have arrived in France.

I am writing at this time just to let you know that I am alright, which fact I suppose you are very much in doubt about. I am happy and in the best of health. Will close hoping everybody at home is the same.

Your loving son,

Home-Seekers Open New Series.

The thirty-fourth series of shares will be opened by the Home-Seekers Co-operative Savings and Loan Association on August 5th. A new series has been opened every six months for several years, and notwithstanding the many war loans and campaigns, each new series has been more liberally subscribed than the last. The 18th series matured on April 1st, the shareholders having paid in 140.36 per share of $200, a profit of $59.64 in eleven years and eight months. The "Home-Seekers" has been accomplishing results like this for its members for nearly thirty years, and has grown steadily until it now has over 4,500 shares outstanding. Its membership includes all classes from the person saving $50 a month to the one saving $50, and from the person paying for the modest home that cost a few hundred to the one paying for the mansion that cost thousands. The co-operative savings and loan associations are perfectly safe; their funds are invested in first mortgages that are being gradually reduced, they are bound by the same restrictions and regulations as savings banks and are subjected to a rigid examination by the State Banking Department annually. The returns, or dividends, are large, because these associations are conservatively managed, their expenses are low, and all the profits go to the members. The "Home-Seekers" has declared a dividend of 6 per cent on money for several years. From the standpoint of a borrower, they offer peculiar advantages, because his payments are made monthly, his loan is gradually reduced and in a comparatively short time his property is free and clear. Every one ought to save, and every family ought to own a home, and the co-operative savings and loan associations afford excellent means for doing either. Subscriptions to the new series may be made at the office of the "Home-Seekers," No. 23 Broadway, at any time from now on.

FOOD QUESTION BOX.

These are some of the questions women are asking on food problems. They are answered by the Department of Home Economics of the State College of Agriculture through the Ulster County Conservation Agent. Address inquiries to the Food Question Box, Miss L. M. Stuart, No. 74 John street, Kingston, New York.

1. My eggs have been in water glass, which still maintains a clear appearance after 4 weeks. Will the eggs spoil if it does not turn cloudy? If you used the correct proportion of water glass solution and water (1 1/2 quarts water glass to 18 quarts of boiled water), there will be no danger of your eggs spoiling even if the liquid does not turn cloudy. Water should be added from time to time to take the place of that which evaporates.

2. Kindly explain why ice cream is ever poisonous. Is it due to re-freezing, to the action of the tin, or to melting?

The cause of poisoning from ice cream is due to the growth of certain harmful bacteria in cream, that is kept for some time or that is produced, handled, or frozen under unclean conditions. The reason for poisoning is the failure to sterilize it before putting the cream into it. This is sometimes not done, and bacteria may be lodged in the crevices acted on the cream, and produce substances that cause food poisoning. When any food has been frozen, and is then allowed to thaw, it is acted on by bacteria more quickly than is the normal product and is therefore much more apt to spoil rapidly. It is for this reason that, in some states, a law exists against re-freezing cream.

Can you give me any help as to the cause and method of preventing shrinkage in sweet cucumber pickle?

The shrinkage of pickles, either sweet or sour, can generally be attributed to the cucumbers being soaked in too strong a salt solution, or to the use of too much sugar. This draws the moisture from the pickle and shrinks it. It should be soaked in a brine made by adding from one-third to one-half cupful of salt to a quart of water.

RAIL PROBLEMS.

Tremendous Task Faced By Railway Administration.

Some of our national transportation problems and difficulties can be better understood when it is remembered that in the northeastern section of the United States, including New York, Pennsylvania, adjoining states, and New England, the population is 633 persons to every mile of railroad; in the south the figures are 407 persons per mile; and in the west, 252.

There are 15 square miles of land to every mile of railroad in the west, while in the east there is 1 mile of rail to every 5 square miles of land. There are innumerable factories in this eastern theater, and the bringing in of coal and raw material and the carrying out of manufactured products make up a tremendous freight tonnage.

The railroad administration is solving gradually many problems. By the elimination of many unnecessary passenger trains several thousand engines are diverted from passenger to freight traffic, which relieves the situation materially. As so by loading the freight cars to full capacity a great saving is being accomplished. Routing freight by the most direct route, and other methods adopted by the administration, are doing much to ease the strain on our transportation facilities.

PALENTOWN.

Palentown, July 15.—Dr. Marks from Kingston made a very successful sale of his eye glasses in this place the past week.

M. Gray and William Gray are treating their barns with a new roof.

Mrs. H. Traver spent last Wednesday with her daughter, Mrs. Jesse Shurtler, in Samsenville.

Miss Bessie Reaves has returned home from Poughkeepsie, where she spent two weeks with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Brannen.

Matthew Dymond has gone to Greene county. He will help gather the hay, which is reported a good crop in that place.

Private Roy Van Aken, who has a short furlough, and Miss Flossie Decker, of Kingston, and Russell Thomas, and Miss M. Lyons, of Kingston, recently called on Miss Jennie Gray of this place. Mr. Van Aken is one of our volunteer soldiers and a school mate of Miss Gray. A delightful time was enjoyed by all. After bidding Miss Gray good-bye, they returned to Kingston with their auto.

Ell Coddington had the misfortune to lose one of his winter pigs.

The German Docks.

The taking over by the United States of the title and possession of the docks, piers, wharves, and other shipping property on the Hudson river, owned by the German steamship companies, the North German Lloyd and the Hamburg corporations, is greeted with universal approval by the American people. The property is to be retained by the government and not turned back to its former owners at the close of the war. Purchasers of Liberty Loan Bonds and War Savings Stamps, who supply the money used for this purpose, may feel special gratification. These docks and piers and wharves are strategic points of great importance and value, and it is intolerable that they should remain in enemy hands, or that they should ever revert to German ownership. German commerce has been shown to have been so indissolubly bound up with the war, that it is just and right that it should suffer all the penalties of war.

SENATOR JAMES A. REED

SPEAKER CLARK AND SENATOR REED DISCUSS MR. HEARST

Clark Gives Publisher Credit for Originating or Advocating Every Reformatory Measure Introduced in Congress in Last Twenty-five Years.

A number of Senators and members of the House of Representatives were the guests of William Randolph Hearst in New York City on July 4 to witness the great patriotic demonstration. At an informal dinner in the evening at the Hotel Astor addresses were made by Speaker Champ Clark, of the House of Representatives, and Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri.

Speaker Clark said:

"We're all up here as the guests of Mr. Hearst, and I want to tell you why I'm here. I stand by my friends."

There was long cheering, and Mr. Clark continued:

"He wants the people to have a good time, and that's the reason he invited us up here. You may not know it, but Hearst and I were friends before we ever saw each other. His mother and father were born in my Congressional district in Missouri, and when I found that out I liked him for it."

HEARST A BASHFUL MAN.

"When Hearst was in Congress I didn't see much of him. He is one of the most bashful men in the world. I am a bashful man, too, and I didn't care to struggle up to Hearst much at that time, for fear he might think I was trying to get him to say something nice in his papers about me, so I just treated him with respect, and he treated me in the same way."

"He's the biggest publisher that ever lived on the face of the earth or ever will live on it. I've been writing an autobiography for some time and I've put off saying anything about Hearst until the last chapter. He won't know anything about it until it is printed, because it's coming out in Hearst's Magazine."

"There hasn't been a measure proposed for the improvement of human beings in the last quarter of a century that he didn't originate or advocate. Every reformatory measure in Congress in the last twenty-five years he was either at the bottom of or a great factor in it."

STARTED RAILROAD REGULATION.

"When he came to the House he introduced the first real, bona fide, double back-action act for the regulation of railroads ever introduced in Congress. The Republicans violently opposed it and some Democrats thought he was crazy. What is the railroad situation to-day? I never did quite understand why Hearst and John Sharpe Williams got at loggerheads, unless it was just because their entire training had been different. Men will fall out and disagree."

"I'm in favor of giving every man his due in this world, and when a man gets up and says I shall not come to New York when I get ready and shall not be the guest of any friend of mine, he calculates on a very different kind of a man from what I am."

"HEARST IS MY FRIEND."

"My private opinion is that Hearst has done a heap more good than all of those fellows together who are bullyingragging him. I came here because he's my friend, and that's the reason the rest of you are here."

SENATOR REED ATTACKS HEARST'S ENEMIES

Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, was called upon and he made an eloquent speech. He took occasion to admonish sharply the detractors of the host of the day, saying in part:

"I stood to-day, the guest of Mr. Hearst, and saw marching by these different races of men and looked into their eyes. Many of them were of peoples with wonderful history, but peoples who have been ground into the dust by the weight of years of tyranny."

"Let those who try to stop such processions as we have seen to-day and to help to heap obliquity upon those whose brains furnished the organization of such parades answer to the people of America. They have employed the methods of cheap demagogues, the same from the days of Alcibiades on the streets of Athens, to the latest modern type. The worst enemy this country has to-day is the man who goes about certifying that the great heart of America is rotten with treason."

"The greatest disservice to our country is to constantly assert that our people are not true to the flag and to the nation. It is utterly contemptible. It ought to be denounced everywhere."

"It was Mr. Hearst who helped to make possible this great demonstration we have witnessed. For this great day of inspiration which has been most happy and enjoyable to us all we are indebted to him."

"And let us not forget his charming wife, who has given so much of her time and her devoted attention to the soldiers and the cause in which this country is engaged."

DEMOCRATS WILL MEET TO-NIGHT

To Make Up List of Clerks and Inspectors and Discuss Candidates—
Irwin's Lightning Rod Ready to Be Stuck Up.

The Democratic county and city committee meet tonight at 7:30 at the Jefferson League rooms, Cordts building, Fair street. A list of poll clerks and inspectors for the coming year will be made up at that meeting. There will be discussions of candidates for the local ticket.

It is expected that the position of the Ulster county democracy with respect to the gubernatorial aspiration of Ex-Mayor Irwin will be up for discussion. An effort is expected to be made to erect a lightning rod on the ambitions of the collector of internal revenue.

Judge Jenkins will be endorsed for county judge, Jacob V. Merrihew, of Olive, John E. Mahar, superintendent of the Prudential Insurance, William D. Coons, supervisor of Shandaken, and Holt N. Windfield, of Esopus, are being mentioned for county clerk.

Alfred D. Van Buren and John D. Lyons are mentioned for assemblyman.

Probably tonight when the question of state senator comes up, the committee will agree to await the action of Greene county. This means harmony they tell us.

ALIEN RELATIVES.

Interesting Question Arises at Probate of Will.

Judge Clearwater, who represents the alien property custodian, appeared before the surrogate this morning in the matter of the probate of the will of Louis Hauser, deceased, which was offered for probate by Loupis Keen and Edward Keen of Shandaken. Hauser became a naturalized citizen nearly fifty years ago, and is believed to have left relatives in Germany to whom a citation for the probate of the will was directed by Surrogate Gill, they being entitled to notice under the laws of this state. The question presented to the surrogate was whether a judgment could be taken which would affect alien enemies. Both the surrogate and Judge Clearwater were of the opinion that proceedings in the courts of New York could be conducted to judgment against alien enemies notwithstanding the existence of a state of war between the United States and the alien enemies' country. County Attorney John W. Eckert represented the executors.

CHICAGO SLACKERS ALL ROUNDED UP

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, July 15.—Chicago federal officials justified in their drive on slackers by adding more than one thousand men to the National Army, are today taking steps to turn their attention to violators of the "work or fight" order.

The so-called slacker drive is over, with more than twenty thousand men having been temporarily detained until registration was established, and more than ten times that number stopped and questioned, and forced to show their little card which tells the owner has signed up on Uncle Sam's Berlin visiting trip.

Officials here say they are satisfied that from the net drawn around the city, few if any slackers have escaped and predict that when the work or fight order drive is undertaken, results will be as satisfactory.

The singing of "The Marseillaise" was a feature. In many of the churches and on some of the residences, the French tricolor was intertwined with Old Glory. Special services were held on the Day Line boats.

POTATO CROP IN DANGER AGAIN FROM PLANT LICE

Potato Growers Beware--Potato Aphids or Plant Lice Threaten to Destroy Many Potato Fields in Ulster County--Farm Bureau Gives Control Measures Which Must be Promptly Taken if Crop is to be Saved.

A year ago this summer little aphids, also known as plant lice made their appearance in large numbers, ruining many potato fields and doing considerable damage in others. These "Pesty Critters," as one grower termed them, are again becoming quite numerous. They are now present in nearly every community in the county.

The lice may be green, pink or of a greyish tint in color. They attack the leaves and tender tips of the plants. They are very small but may be easily seen on the under sides of leaves, oftentimes in large quantities. Under favorable conditions the lice multiply with great rapidity and in a few days can do a great deal of damage. The foliage takes on a shiny, sticky appearance, due to the presence of the honey dew secreted by the aphids, growth stops and in many cases the plants are killed outright.

The Control.
Such sprays as arsenate of lead, Paris green and pyrex are absolutely of no use in trying to control plant lice. These sprays are poisonous and will only serve their purpose when taken into the body of the insect. As the aphids or plant lice are not biting but sucking insects they can only be controlled by using a contact spray.

They can be killed by spraying with "Black Leaf 40," tobacco extract, used at the rate of 1/2 pint in 50 gallons of water or Bordeaux mixture. When water is used 3 or 4 pounds of soap should be added to each 50 gallons. Do not use soap when Bordeaux mixture is used.

Tobacco extract kills by contact and will not kill any lice not actually wet by the spray. As most of the lice are on the under side of the leaves it is necessary to have the spray directed upward. Some potato sprayers have the nozzles fixed to do this.

Watch your potatoes carefully and if the lice appear in injurious numbers destroy them before the vines become badly stunted. If you desire further information relative to this pest inspect the Freeman, July 15, 1918, page 10.

John St., Kingston, N. Y.

Spoke at Clinton Ave. M. E. Church.

"If these boys are a fair sample of what we are sending into our army and navy, America will surely win this war," said the Rev. Otto Brand, field secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital of Brooklyn. Mr. Brand spoke on the war work of that institution at the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church on Sunday night. Since early in January an average of 100 sick United States sailors have been cared for daily at the hospital. Most of these boys are from the south and far west. Consequently they are dependent upon strangers for many of the extra comforts they desire. Recreation rooms, provided with pool tables and Victrolas, have been placed at their disposal, and auto parties are arranged for almost daily for the convalescent patients. Owing to the high cost of food, fuel and medical supplies, the hospital for the past three years has had difficulty in meeting expenses. Its annual budget now amounts to almost $200,000 and much of this must come from voluntary gifts. Its territory extends for into New York state, and into parts of five contiguous states. Kingston comes within the bounds of its activities and has furnished patients. Much free work is done for the poor, and all are cared for regardless of racial or denominational differences.

Learn When to Be Silent.
The union of good talker and listener is irresistible. Talk should teach us when to be silent. We have made progress when we realize that it is unnecessary to continually be explaining everything in detail. We see from the statistical dead, and the too personal "I" in conversation, personally reiterating the "I have done" and "I have not done" an attitude significant perhaps of women's penchant for falling to grasp ideas in a large way.

WAR INSURANCE.

All Ranks in France Appreciate Government Bureau.

Secretary McAdoo has received the following cablegram from Gen. Pershing:

"All ranks of the American Expeditionary Forces appreciate deeply the generous measure the Government has taken to provide insurance for their families. In proof of which more than 90 per cent of men have taken out insurance. To wisely provide for their loved ones heartens our men and strengthens the bonds that unite the army and people in our strong determination to triumph in our most righteous cause."

The bureau of War-Risk Insurance up to June 28 has written $21,566,000,000 insurance, representing 2,570,455 applications. The average amount of insurance applied for is $8,387, and in some battalions and regiments, some in France and some here, every man has taken out insurance. In some units every man is insured for the maximum of $10,000.

One of the American generals says that this government insurance is an element of victory. All Liberty Bond holders and all purchasers of War Savings Stamps may feel that they had a part in this insurance--the most just and humane provision ever made by any nation for its fighting men.

On Active Service With the American Expeditionary Forces, June 21, 1918.

Dear Mother:

No doubt you think it a long time since last I wrote, but I think it longer. Nevertheless, it is my first opportunity, as I have been very busy. I suppose you have been watching the papers very close the last few days. Well, I surely have seen some action and would like to tell you all about it. I will say I have had some sleepless days and nights, some endless, but not fighting just at present I am having all the cuts and smokes I can take care of, such as cakes, chocolate, canned goods, cigars and tobacco, which we receive through the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. All this is aside from our meals, which are the best. My old pal, Ellyer, is still with me. I am wondering if any of the fellows from around home have arrived in France.

I am writing at this time just to let you know that I am alright, which fact I suppose you are very much in doubt about. I am happy and in the best of health. Will close hoping everybody at home is the same.

Your loving son,

Home-Seekers Open New Series.

The thirty-fourth series of shares will be opened by the Home-Seekers' Co-operative Savings and Loan Association on August 5th. A new series has been opened every six months for several years, and notwithstanding the many war loans and campaigns, each new series has been more liberally subscribed than the last. The 18th series matured on April 1st, the shareholders having paid in 140.36 per share of $200, a profit of $59.64 in eleven years and eight months. The "Home-Seekers" has been accomplishing results like this for its members for nearly thirty years, and has grown steadily until it now has over 4,500 shares outstanding. Its membership includes all classes from the person saving $10 a month to the one saving $50, and from the person paying for the modest home that cost a few hundred to the one paying for the mansion that cost thousands. The co-operative savings and loan associations are perfectly safe; their funds are invested in first mortgages that are being gradually reduced, they are bound by the same restrictions and regulations as savings banks and are subjected to a rigid examination by the State Banking Department annually. The returns, or dividends, are large, because these associations are conservatively managed, their expenses are low and all the profits go to the members. The "Home-Seekers" has declared a dividend of 6 per cent or more for several years. From the standpoint of a borrower, they offer peculiar advantages because his payments are made monthly, his loan is gradually reduced and in a comparatively short time his property is free and clear. Every one ought to save, and every family ought to own a home, and the co-operative savings and loan associations afford excellent means for doing either. Subscriptions to the new series may be made at the office of the "Home-Seekers," No. 23 Broadway, at any time from now on.

European Bee Superstition.

A prevalent superstition in parts of Europe is that bees will either fly away or die on the occasion of a death in the family unless someone knocks at their hive and tells them about it.

FOOD QUESTION BOX.

These are some of the questions women are asking on food problems. They are answered by the Department of Home Economics of the State College of Agriculture through the Ulster County Conservation Agent. Address inquiries to the Food Question Box, Miss L. M. Stuart, No. 74 John street, Kingston, New York.

1. My eggs have been in water glasses, which still maintains a clear appearance after 4 weeks. Will the eggs spoil if it does not turn cloudy? If you used the correct proportion of water glass solution and water (1 1/2 quarts water glass to 18 quarts of boiled water), there will be no danger of your eggs spoiling even if the liquid does not turn cloudy. Water should be added from time to time to take the place of that which evaporates.

2. Kindly explain why ice cream is ever poisonous. Is it due to re-freezing, to the action of the tin, or to melting?

The cause of poisoning from ice cream is due to the growth of certain harmful bacteria in cream, that is kept for some time or that is produced, handled, or frozen under unclean conditions. The reason for scalding the freezer to sterilize it before putting the cream into it. This is sometimes not done, and bacteria may be lodged in the crevices act on the cream, and produce substances that cause food poisoning. When any food has been frozen, and is then allowed to thaw, it is acted on by bacteria more quickly than is the normal product and is therefore much more apt to spoil rapidly. It is for this reason that in some states a law exists against re-freezing cream.

Can you give me any help as to the cause and method of preventing shrinkage in sweet cucumber pickle? The shrinkage of pickles, either sweet or sour, can generally be attributed to the cucumbers being soaked in too strong a salt solution, or to the use of too much sugar. This draws the moisture from the pickle and shrinks it. It should be soaked in a brine made by adding from one-third to one-half cupful of salt to a quart of water.

RAIL PROBLEMS.

Tremendous Task Faced by Railway Administration.

Some of our national transportation problems and difficulties can be better understood when it is remembered that in the northeastern section of the United States, including New York, Pennsylvania, adjoining states, and New England, the population is 693 persons to every mile of railroad; in the south the figures are 407 persons per mile; and in the west, 252.

There are 15 square miles of land to every mile of railroad in the west, while in the east there is 1 mile of rail to every 5 square miles of land. There are innumerable factories in this eastern theater, and the bringing in of coal and iron material and the carrying out of manufactured products make up a tremendous freight tonnage.

The railroad administration is solving gradually many problems. By the elimination of many unnecessary passenger trains several thousand engines are diverted from passenger to freight traffic, which relieves the situation materially. Also by loading the freight cars to full capacity a great saving is being accomplished. Routing freight by the most direct route, and other methods adopted by the administration, are doing much to ease the strain on our transportation facilities.

PALENTOWN.

Palentown, July 15.--Dr. Marks from Kingston made a very successful sale of his eye glasses in this place the past week.

M. Gray and William Gray are treating their barns with a new roof.

Mrs. H. Traver spent last Wednesday with her daughter, Mrs. Jesse Shurtler, in Samsonville.

Miss Bessie Reaves has returned home from Poughkeepsie, where she spent two weeks with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Brannen.

Matthew Dymond has gone to Greene county. He will help gather the hay, which is reported a good crop in that place.

Private Roy Van Aken, who has a short furlough, and Miss Flossie Decker, of Kingston, and Russell Thomas and Miss Mae Lyons, of Kingston, recently called on Miss Jennie Gray of this place. Mr. Van Aken is one of our volunteer soldiers and a school mate of Miss Gray. A delightful time was enjoyed by all. After bidding Miss Gray goodbye, they returned to Kingston with their auto.

Ell Coddington had the misfortune to lose one of his winter pigs.

The German Docks.

The taking over by the United States of the title and possession of the docks, piers, wharves, and other shipping property on the Hudson river, owned by the German steamship companies, the North German Lloyd and the Hamburg German Lines, is greeted with universal approval by the American people. The property is to be retained by the government and not turned back to its former owners at the close of the war. Purchasers of Liberty Loan Bonds and War Savings Stamps, who supply the money used for this purpose, may feel especial gratification. These docks and piers and wharves are strategic points of great importance and value, and it is intolerable that they should remain in enemy hands, or that they should ever revert to German ownership. German commerce has been shown to have been so indelibly bound up with ours, and so much a part of German militarism, that it is just and right that it should suffer all the penalties of war.

SWEETS FOR THE LITTLE PEOPLE.

The following candies are some which may be made without the use of the ordinary sugar:

Melasses Candy.—Boil together one-half cupful of corn syrup, one and one-half cupfuls of molasses or sorghum, a teaspoonful of vinegar and a teaspoonful of fat, with a pinch of soda. Boil until it is brittle when dropped in cold water, add fat and soda, remove from the fire, beat well and pour into a greased tin. When cool, pull until light in color. Cut in inch pieces.

Maple Drops.—Cook two cupfuls of maple sugar with three-quarters of a cupful of water or milk and a tablespoonful of fat, to the soft ball stage; cool slightly, beat until the mixture begins to thicken, add a cupful of chopped nuts and turn into a greased tin to cool. Mark off in squares as soon as cool enough.

Honey Caramels.—Heat a quarter of a cupful of honey, three-quarters of a cupful of corn syrup to the boiling point, then add gradually a cupful of milk; stir and cook until the mixture forms a soft ball in water. Add a pinch of salt and a few chopped nuts. Turn into well greased tin and mark in squares when cool.

Peanut Brittle.—Take two cupfuls of maple sugar, melt over heat, stirring constantly; add a pinch of salt and a half-cupful of coarsely chopped peanuts; turn at once into a greased pan.

Maple Divinity Fudge.—Take a cupful of maple sugar, a quarter of a cupful of water, boil to the soft ball stage, then pour over the stiffly beaten white of one egg, beating constantly; add a half-teaspoonful of vanilla extract and a half-cupful of nuts. Drop from a spoon on a greased platter before the mixture gets too stiff.

Maple Fondant.—Take five cupfuls of maple sugar, two tablespoonsful of corn syrup and three-quarters of a cupful of water. Boil to the soft ball stage; cool, then beat with a wooden spoon until creamy. Then knead on a board. Cover and let stand a day or two.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 15, 1918.

MORE THAN MAD.

It is startling to hear that Irishmen need to be "won" to the cause of the Allies. The astonishing announcement is made by Col. Arthur Lynch, Irish Nationalist member of Parliament, who appeals to Colonel Roosevelt, his "great and splendid friend," to cross the Atlantic and help him "win the souls of the young men of Ireland to the Allied cause"—young men whose attitude has not been changed even by the participation of the United States in the war. Colonel Lynch hoped that they would change when the American flag, the "sign of protection to millions of Irishmen," floated over the Allied line, but "ancient wrongs and present resentment proved too strong" and they still stand "for Germany?" Colonel Lynch himself sees clearly that Irish complaint or aspiration is unimportant while the Germans are "thundering at the gates of Paris and hammering at the Channel ports, for 'if they win it will be useless to make plans for Ireland or dream dreams of liberty; Potsdam will take care of Erin.'"

But he seems to despair of awakening the young men of Ireland and makes the highly interesting suggestion that Col. Roosevelt go and help in the work. Col. Lynch's own career testifies to the forbearance of English government in dealing even with Irish enemies in arms, for he fought with the Boers against England and, though in 1903 he was condemned to death for treason, in 1907 he received a free pardon. For the same offense against Germany he would have been shot or hanged immediately after conviction or even without a trial. The "young men of Ireland," whom he in his enlightenment is trying to awake, are more than mad.

GERMAN LOGIC.

The world's stinging comment on the sinking of the hospital ship Llandovery Castle and the murder of the non-combatants on board seems to have penetrated the Hun's tough hide deeply enough to bring forth denial and defense. The argument of the German editors, as quoted, might be summed up as follows: "We did not sink the Llandovery Castle—a British mine did it—but when our U-boats sank this hospital ship we were amply justified by the circumstances of this war."

Such logic is of a piece with the German defense of the war in general. The war is merely to defend the fatherland against enemies seeking its destruction, but it is necessary to do the defending on the soil of a half dozen foreign countries. It is also necessary to hold all conquered territory, to get possession of Great Britain's fleet, to force the Allies and their banker, the United States, to pay an indemnity of fifty billions at the least. Meanwhile it is imperative to squeeze the life blood out of the people of all the conquered sections, making the exhausted Belgians, for example, pay a tax of $12,000,000 a month, or about $150 a person. It is equally necessary to commit all manner of hideous atrocities in order to terrorize Germany's enemies and bring them more quickly under subjection. In all this, of course, "the German God" is with the German people. The Kaiser has just called upon all Germans to rally round their "supreme war lord" in order "to win for the fatherland happiness and freedom"—freedom to throttle the world!—promising Divine help in this "just cause." Comment is needless.

The tabulation of the special enrollment of women just completed by Superintendent of Elections Marshall shows that the two great parties in the state have a total membership, men and women, of 2,006,909 of which 1,119,428 are Republicans and 887,481 are Democrats, giving the Republicans a superiority of 231,947. Of the total of 622,570 women enrolled, 375,985 are Republicans and 247,485 are Democrats. Of the total of 1,384,339 men enrolled, 744,343 are Republicans and 639,996 are Democrats. The total men's enrollment, Republican and Democratic is 1,384,339 and the total women's enrollment is 622,570. In the Republican party, women constitute a trifle more than one third of the membership and in the Democratic party a shade less than two sevenths. Outside of New York city the enrollment of women strongly favored the Republican party with the result that in the state at large it served to increase the party's lead over the Democrats by 127,600.

Those up-state Democrats who have been spending their money going to conferences designed to eliminate Hearst and Murphy from control of the Democratic party might better have spent their money for War Savings Stamps. That would have done some good.

K. of C. Victory Convention.

At the Victory Convention of the Knights of Columbus to be held in New York on August 6th and 7th, delegates from all over the country will obtain a personal insight into the magnitude of the work, for which the American public has given no less than $12,000,000, the larger part of which has already been expended. With the full program of work for the present year calling for a great multiplication of effort in every department, for large increase in personnel and scores of buildings, with their necessary equipment besides huge amounts of supplies, several times the millions spent during the first year will be required to maintain and extend the work on an efficient basis during the next twelve months. The budget, as at present outlined, calls for a sum of over $50,000,000, for the ensuing year—approximately one million dollars a week.

More Autos This Year.

Albany, July 15.—With the first five months of New York state's automobile year showing a 47 per cent increase in commercial cars over the same period in 1917, a 16 per cent increase in passenger cars and a 22 per cent increase of all types of motor vehicles, the Empire State is setting a new record in automobile registration and one that indicates 500,000 cars, 150,000 chauffeurs and $5,000,000 in receipts by the end of this year. The total registration of all types of cars in this state on July 1 was 423,853, or a gain of 73,813 over July 1, 1917.

Buy for Victory!

If you buy intelligently it naturally follows that you save and saving is going to help win this war.

However, intelligent buying doesn't mean getting a cheap article because of the low price. On the other hand it doesn't mean buying the highest priced article you can find.

It means striking a happy medium; paying just enough to get real quality.

That's what you do when you buy clothes of us. They're made of the best all-wool fabrics by Hart Schaffner & Marx; they're priced right and they're real quality.

You get the long wear and style that go with real quality and consequently you buy less. That's how you save.

VICTORY MENUS.

These menus, planned to conserve time, labor and money, to save the foods that are scarce and use those of which there is an abundance, are Victory Menus in more senses than one. They are prepared by the Department of Home Economics of the State College of Agriculture and endorsed by the New York State Food Commission.

Tuesday.

Breakfast—Baked apples. Hominy grits, top milk, potato cakes, coffee substitute.

Lunch or Supper—Eggs a la Gold-enrod. Stuffed potatoes. Sliced fruit.

Dinner—Broiled fish steaks. Parsley potatoes. Spinach, buttered. Rice custard with prunes.

(May be omitted and still leave a balanced meal.)

Milk for the children to drink at each meal.

Custom has relegated fish to Friday but conservation is giving this splendid food more and more a place in the menus of other days. This is as it should be for fish, while an excellent and delicious substitute for meat, does not eat up the grains of the land but feeds itself and may be had for the catching. Use fish several times a week.

Stuffed Potatoes.

Cut baked potatoes in half, remove the pulp, mash it, add enough milk for the usual consistency of mashed potatoes, and season with butter, salt and pepper. Fill the cases with this mixture, dot the tops with butter or brush them with milk, and bake them for 8 or 10 minutes in a hot oven. Potatoes may be stuffed in the morning and heated at noon or in the evening for dinner.

Variations—To the mashed potatoes, before the cases are filled, may be added any one or a combination of the following:

a. Beaten white of egg (1 egg to 3 medium-sized potatoes.)

b. Grated cheese (1/2 cup to 3 medium-sized potatoes.)

c. Chopped meat (1/2 cup to 3 medium-sized potatoes.)

d. Chopped parsley (1 tablespoon to 3 medium-sized potatoes.)

Rice Custard With Prunes.

Make a boiled custard from 2 cups milk, 3 eggs yolks and enough sugar to sweeten. When thickened, add 1 cup cooked rice. In a baking dish place a layer of stoned prunes, cover with the custard mixture, make a meringue from the two egg whites, place on top and bake until it is brown.

Recipes for any of the dishes in these menus which cannot be found in cook books, may be had by writing to the Department of Home Economics, State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

ARMY PROMOTIONS.

Former Kingston Man Now Major General.

President Wilson made these army nominations Saturday:

Modest Fish Story.

Everett Blanchan, the good natured advertising manager of the Kingston Freeman, is telling his friends of the exceptionally good luck he had on his fishing trip to Cold Brook on Saturday last. He does not mention weights of any one particular fish but judging from the way he talks he had to tow the loaded home. He said if only the bait lasted out the catch would have been bigger. They were hitting great for if he did not get the lines over fast enough the fish just jumped out the water and up the bank to the bait pail.

NOW TO HARVEST HAY AND GRAINS

Many Orders For Help in Hands of Chairman Crosby—Men Who Responded to Field Needs First Month.

The relief given to many farmers by the volunteers sent out through the Chamber of Commerce brings back many appreciative expressions from those whose fields have been worked.

More than one employer of farm hands has stated that the Kingston volunteers have saved his crops.

The threatening weather with rain at intervals, cold and cloudy, has set back the work on the farms.

The last of cultivating corn and potatoes was reached with the end of the week and so far as can be ascertained this enrollment of volunteers has been the means of saving several fields. In one place it was stated by the farmer that without this help he would have lost a large field of corn.

The farmers are getting at work in their grain. But this is backward on account of the weather. It would be a blessing to many if clear hot weather could be had this week.

In some cases they have started cutting their rye but have had to knock off work because of rain.

The fields are ready, the growth of crops is heavy and Chairman Crosby has plenty of workers to draw on.

The enrollment published in The Freeman solved the problem of farm labor supply by Chamber of Commerce activity. That more were not employed on the farms since the volunteer labor was obtained is not the fault of the system.

The harvests now beginning will doubtless draw on this supply. Orders are in the hands of Chairman Crosby but they cannot be filled until the men are wanted which is to be decided by weather conditions only.

Here is the roll of honor—farmers who drew on the Chamber of Commerce, the dates, employment, those who responded and who furnished automobiles.

Changes in Modern Face.
The tendency of the modern face, according to Prof. James Keith, lecturer on anthropology at the Royal Institute, London, England, is to become wedge-shaped, with a longer, narrower and more prominent nose. Prominences above the eyes are disappearing, and the brow is becoming smooth and of an even contour. These changes in the human face, declared the scientist, are due to changes in methods of mastication from the earlier days of the human race.

LAW OF NEW YORK—By Authority. CHAP. 562.

AN ACT to provide for establishing a portion of the north boundary line of the county of Ulster, and being a portion of the south boundary line of the county of Greene, and known as the north boundary line of Great Lot number eight, Hardenburgh patent, and making an appropriation therefor.

Enacted by the People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The state engineer and surveyor is hereby authorized and directed to locate, establish and permanently mark upon the ground a portion of the north boundary line of the county of Ulster, and being a portion of the south boundary line of the county of Greene and known as the north boundary line of great lot number eight, Hardenburgh patent.

That the state engineer and surveyor make and file in his office a report of the field work done by him or under his direction in locating, establishing and permanently marking upon the ground such boundary line, together with a map which shall correctly show the location, establishment and permanent mark upon such line upon the ground and that he also file in his office all field notes, maps and data obtained and made by him in the location of such line; that said state engineer and surveyor upon the completion of his said report and of the said map cause true copies thereof to be filed in the office of the comptroller and in each of the county clerk's offices in the counties of Ulster and Greene in the state of New York; that upon filing such report and map in the state engineer and surveyor's office, the office of the comptroller and in the county clerk's offices of the counties of Ulster and Greene, the same shall be presumptive evidence that such portion of the north boundary line of the county of Ulster and the south boundary line of the county of Greene have been and are regularly, properly, duly and legally located, established and permanently marked upon the ground as shown by such report and map filed as herein provided, and it shall be conclusive evidence thereof from and after the expiration of one year from the date of such filing.

§ 2. The sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated for the purposes of this act out of any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

seeds and performing the work provided for by this act, to the extent deemed necessary by the state engineer for such purpose, stating the purpose and extent thereof, of the state engineer and surveyor, and upon his written authority, his assistants, agents, employees, and servants, are hereby authorized and empowered to enter in and upon and all lands in this state to whomsoever belonging and to do and perform any acts or act whatsoever necessary to do and fully complete such work and surveys, subject to liability only for payment of all damages on account of entry upon such lands and acts done thereon.

action brought in the name of the people of the state of New York, which the state engineer and surveyor is hereby authorized and empowered to bring.

§ 5. Nothing in this act contained shall affect in any way any pending litigation or in any way affect or disturb the title to any real estate located along said boundary line.

SENATOR JAMES A. REED.

SPEAKER CLARK AND SENATOR REED DISCUSS MR. HEARST

Clark Gives Publisher Credit for Originating or Advocating Every Reformatory Measure Introduced in Congress in Last Twenty-five Years.

A number of Senators and members of the House of Representatives were the guests of William Randolph Hearst in New York City on July 4 to witness the great patriotic demonstration. At an informal dinner in the evening at the Hotel Astor addresses were made by Speaker Champ Clark, of the House of Representatives, and Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri.

Speaker Clark said:

"We're all up here as the guests of Mr. Hearst, and I want to tell you why I'm here. I stand by my friends."

There was long cheering, and Mr. Clark continued:

"He wants the people to have a good time, and that's the reason he invited us up here. You may not know it, but Hearst and I were friends before we ever saw each other. His mother and father were born in my Congressional district in Missouri, and when I found that out I liked him for it."

HEARST A BASHFUL MAN.

"When Hearst was in Congress I didn't see much of him. He is one of the most bashful men in the world. I am a bashful man, too, and I didn't care to struggle up to Hearst much at that time, for fear he might think I was trying to get him to say something nice in his papers about me, so I just treated him with respect, and he treated me in the same way."

"He's the biggest publisher that ever lived on the face of the earth or ever will live on it. I've been writing an autobiography for some time and I've put off saying anything about Hearst until the last chapter. He won't know anything about it until it is printed, because it's coming out in Hearst's Magazine."

"There hasn't been a measure proposed for the improvement of human beings in the last quarter of a century that he didn't originate or advocate. Every reformatory measure in Congress in the last twenty-five years he was either at the bottom of or a great factor in it."

STARTED RAILROAD REGULATION.

"When he came to the House he introduced the first real, bona fide, double back-action act for the regulation of railroads ever introduced in Congress. The Republicans violently opposed it and some Democrats thought he was crazy. What is the railroad situation to-day? I never did quite understand why Hearst and John Sharpe Williams got at loggerheads, unless it was just because their entire training had been different. Men will fall out and disagree."

"I'm in favor of giving every man his due in this world, and when a man gets up and says I shall not come to New York when I get ready and shall not be the guest of any friend of mine, he calculates on a very different kind of a man from what I am."

"HEARST IS MY FRIEND."

"My private opinion is that Hearst has done a heap more good than all of those fellows together who are bullyingragging him. I came here because he's my friend, and that's the reason the rest of you are here."

SENATOR REED ATTACKS HEARST'S ENEMIES

Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, was called upon and he made an eloquent speech. He took occasion to admonish sharply the detractors of the host of the day, saying in part:

"I stood to-day, the guest of Mr. Hearst, and saw marching by these different races of men and looked into their eyes. Many of them were of peoples with wonderful history, but peoples who have been ground into the dust by the weight of years of tyranny."

"Let those who try to stop such processions as we have seen to-day and to help to heap obliquity upon those whose brains furnished the organization of such parades answer to the people of America. They have employed the methods of cheap demagogues, the same from the days of Alcibiades on the streets of Athens, to the latest modern type. The worst enemy this country has to-day is the man who goes about certifying that the great heart of America is rotten with treason."

"The greatest disservice to our country is to constantly assert that our people are not true to the flag and to the nation. It is utterly contemptible. It ought to be denounced everywhere. * * *

"It was Mr. Hearst who helped to make possible this great demonstration we have witnessed. For this great day of inspiration which has been most happy and enjoyable to us all we are indebted to him."

"And let us not forget his charming wife, who has given so much of her time and her devoted attention to the soldiers and the cause in which this country is engaged."

DEMOCRATS WILL MEET TO-NIGHT

To Make Up List of Clerks and Inspectors and Discuss Candidates—
Irwin's Lightning Rod Ready to Be Struck Up.

The Democratic county and city committee meet jointly tonight at 7:30 at the Jefferson League rooms, Cordis building, Fair street. A list of poll clerks and inspectors for the coming year will be made up at that meeting. There will be discussions of candidates for the local ticket.

It is expected that the position of the Ulster county democracy with respect to the gubernatorial aspiration of Ex-Mayor Irwin will be up for discussion. An effort is expected to be made to erect a lightning rod on the ambitions of the collector of internal revenue.

Judge Jenkins will be endorsed for county judge, Jacob V. Merrihew, of Olive, John E. Mahar, superintendent of the Prudential Insurance, William D. Coons, supervisor of Shandaken, and Holt N. Windfeld, of Esopus, are being mentioned for county clerk.

Alfred D. Van Vuren and John D. Lyons are mentioned for assemblyman.

Probably tonight when the question of state senator comes up, the committee will agree to await the action of Greene county. This means harmony they tell us.

ALIEN RELATIVES.

Interesting Question Arises at Probate of Will.

Judge Clearwater, who represents the alien property custodian, appeared before the surrogate this morning in the matter of the probate of the will of Louis Hauser, deceased, which was offered for probate by Louis Keen and Edward Keen of Shandaken. Hauser became a naturalized citizen nearly fifty years ago, and is believed to have left relatives in Germany to whom a citation for the probate of the will was directed by Surrogate Gill, they being entitled to notice under the laws of this state. The question presented to the surrogate was whether a judgment could be taken which would affect alien enemies. Both the surrogate and Judge Clearwater were of the opinion that proceedings in the courts of New York could be conducted notwithstanding the existence of a state of war between the United States and the alien enemies' country. County Attorney John W. Eckert represented the executors.

CHICAGO SLACKERS ALL ROUNDED UP

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, July 15.—Chicago federal officials justified in their drive on slackers by adding more than one thousand men to the National Army, are today taking steps to turn their attention to violators of the "work or fight" order.

The so-called slacker drive is over, with more than twenty thousand men having been temporarily detained until registration was established, and more than ten times that number stopped and questioned, and forced to show their little card which tells the owner has signed up on Uncle Sam's Berlin visiting trip.

Officials here say they are satisfied that from the net drawn around the city, few if any slackers have escaped and predict that when the work or fight order drive is undertaken, results will be as satisfactory.

BRONY KOSLOWSKI'S FRACTURED SKULL

He Received It Sunday While Attempting to Escape From Randall's Island—Is in Hospital Charged With Felonious Assault.

Brony Koslowski of No. 169 Murray street, is in the Harlem Hospital in New York city with a fractured skull received Sunday in attempting to escape from Randall's Island, where he had been committed December 7, 1917, by Recorder Lang on a charge of petit larceny.

The New York Sun, in reporting the incident, says: "Brony Koslowski, a powerful Polish youth, made an attempt to escape Sunday from the House of Refuge, on Randall's Island. With a fractured skull he is now a patient at the Harlem Hospital charged with felonious assault, while Keeper Fitzgerald, who prevented his escape, is at the island hospital with four bad scalp wounds. Sunday night the prisoner pried open the door of his cell. He lurked in the corridor until the keeper passed on his rounds. There the young Pole fell on him with a club. Fitzgerald, after a fight, took the weapon from the prisoner. Then he knocked Koslowski down with it and ended the attempted escape."

Brony, who is 17 years old, is a bad actor. Last December he was arrested with another young man on the complaint of Edward M. Gallagher, charged with stealing three inner automobile tubes and some tools. The arrest was made by Sergeant Hanley and Sergeant Phinney. Brony was sentenced to Randall's Island by Recorder Lang.

On April 5 of last year Brony was arrested at the request of Superintendent of Police Redgate of Bridgeport, Conn., where he was wanted on a charge of stealing goods from a room mate valued at $125. Later Mr. Redgate telegraphed to Recorder Lang that the complaining witness had left the state. Brony was then arraigned and discharged with a warning.

Even before that he had been in trouble. He was mixed up in a fur robbery down town some time ago. Sunday evening local police headquarters received a telegram from New York asking them to notify Brony's friends that he was in the Harlem Hospital with a fractured skull.

If Brony recovers from his wound in the hospital he will have to stand trial on the charge preferred against him of felonious assault, and it is found guilty it will likely mean a term in Sing Sing.

AUTO CASES MANY IN POLICE COURT

Two Cars Came Together on Downs Street—Another Car Ran Wild on Sidewalk—Some Arrested for Speeding.

James Fouby, a young man of Shandaken, was arrested by Officer Hess for reckless driving. The young man drove his Ford car around the corner of Fair and John streets, cutting the corner and running up on the sidewalk, knocking down the bicycle stand in front of the Western Union Telegraph office on John street, and ran into one of Miller's taxicabs.

This morning the young man claimed the accident was due to the fact that his "steering gear stuck." When questioned as to how many accidents he had been in before, he said that last month a man had run in front of his auto at the corner of Broadway and Strand, but that witnesses had absolved him of blame for the accident.

He was fined $5 with a warning by the court to be more careful in the future.

Cars Collide on Downs St.

Sunday evening, an auto, driven by DeWitt Freer, of New Salem, ran into a car driven by Mrs. Emma Jagger of Downs street. She immediately arrested young Freer on a charge of reckless driving, and the case came up for a hearing in police court this morning before Judge Schirick, at which time Freer entered a plea of not guilty and the hearing was adjourned until Wednesday morning.

From what could be learned, both cars were proceeding out Downs street. Near the Jagger residence, Mrs. Jagger turned in toward the driveway and was hit by the Freer car. She claimed she had signaled she was going to turn in. It is understood Freer claimed she did not signal. No one was injured, but both cars were damaged by the collision.

Speeders Arrested.

Thomas W. Moffitt, of New York city, was arrested by Officer Martin on a charge of violation of the traffic laws. He put up a cash bail for his appearance in court today.

Allan Zimmerman was arrested by Officer Healey on Saturday for driving past a trolley car discharging passengers. He was fined $5.

A. B. Chase of Newark was arrested by Officer Walker, the motorcycle cop, for driving his car at 35 miles an hour on Albany avenue, Saturday. He was fined $2 by the court.

Clifford R. Vellis, superintendent of state forestry, was arrested Sunday by Officer Walker charged with running his car at 35 miles an hour on Albany avenue. He was found guilty after a trial and fined $3.

POLICE SIGNAL SYSTEM WORKED

An Auto That Had Struck Another Auto and Refused to Stop Was Caught at City Line by Officer Soper.

Sunday afternoon police headquarters was asked to apprehend a big red Marmon touring car that had struck another car at Shokan and instead of stopping had driven on toward Kingston. The signal system was brought into action with the result that Officer Soper caught the Marmon car as it was entering Kingston and held it until the car that had been hit reached Kingston where an amicable adjustment was made for the damages and the Marmon then proceeded on its way to New York.

The Marmon car was owned by Harry Barker and driven by a colored chauffeur named Ernest Brown. It struck the car owned by R. C. Morris of Hartford, Conn. It ripped off the running board and lighting system and narrowly escaped hitting a woman sitting in the rear seat of the car that was struck.

Mr. Morris was profuse in his praise of the results obtained by the police signal system and the quick work of Officer Soper in locating the Marmon car.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 15, 1918

MORE THAN MAD.

It is startling to hear that Irishmen need to be "won" to the cause of the Allies. The astonishing announcement is made by Col. Arthur Lynch, Irish Nationalist member of Parliament, who appeals to Colonel Roosevelt, his "great and splendid friend," to cross the Atlantic and help him "win the souls of the young men of Ireland to the Allies' cause"—young men whose attitude has not been changed even by the participation of the United States in the war. Colonel Lynch hoped that they would change when the American flag, the "sign of protection to millions of Irishmen," floated over the Allied line, but "ancient wrongs and present resentment proved too strong," and they still stand—fer Germany? Colonel Lynch himself sees clearly that Irish complaint or aspiration is unimportant while the Germans are "thundering at the gates of Paris and hammering at the Channel ports, for 'if they win it will be useless to make plans for Ireland or dream dreams of liberty; Potsdam will take care of Erin.'"

But he seems to despair of awakening the young men of Ireland and makes the highly interesting suggestion that Col. Roosevelt go and help in the work. Col. Lynch's own career testifies to the forbearance of English government in dealing even with Irish enemies in arms, for he fought with the Boers against England and, though in 1903 he was condemned to death for treason, in 1907 he received a free pardon. For the same offense against Germany he would have been shot or hanged immediately after conviction or even without a trial. The "young men of Ireland," whom he in his enlightenment is trying to awake, are more than mad.

GERMAN LOGIC.

The world's stinging comment on the sinking of the hospital ship Llandovery Castle and the murder of the non-combatants on board seems to have penetrated the Hun's tough hide deeply enough to bring forth denial and defense. The argument of the German editors, as quoted, might be summed up as follows: "We did not sink the Llandovery Castle—a British mine did it—but when our U-boats sank this hospital ship we were amply justified by the circumstances of this war."

Such logic is of a piece with the German defense of the war in general. The war is merely to defend the fatherland against enemies seeking its destruction, but it is necessary to do the defending on the soil of a half dozen foreign countries. It is also necessary to hold all conquered territory, to let possession of Great Britain's fleet, to force the Allies and their banker, the United States, to pay an indemnity of fifty billions at the least. Meanwhile it is imperative to squeeze the life blood out of the people of all the conquered sections, making the exhausted Germans, for example, pay a tax of $12,000,000 a month, or about $150 a person. It is equally necessary to commit all manner of hideous atrocities in order to terrorize Germany's enemies and bring them more quickly under subjection. In all this, of course, "the German God" is with the German people. The Kaiser has just called upon all Germans to rally round their "supreme war lord" in order "to win for the fatherland happiness and freedom"—freedom to throttle the world—"promising Divine help in this 'just cause.' Comment is needless.

The tabulation of the special enrollment of women just completed by Superintendent of Elections Marshall shows that the two great parties in the state have a total membership, men and women, of 2,006,969 of which 1,119,428 are Republicans and 887,541 are Democrats, giving the Republicans a superiority of 231,947. Of the total of 622,576 women enrolled, 375,955 are Republicans and 247,483 are Democrats. Of the total of 1,384,339 men enrolled, 744,343 are Republicans and 639,996 are Democrats. The total men's enrollment, Republican and Democratic is 1,384,339 and the total women's enrollment is 622,576. In the Republican party, women constitute a trifle more than one third of the membership and in the Democratic party a shade less than two sevenths. Outside of New York city the enrollment of women strongly favored the Republican party with the result that in the state at large it served to increase the party's lead over the Democrats by 127,690.

Those up-state Democrats who have been spending their money going to conferences designed to eliminate Hearst and Murphy from control of the Democratic party might better have spent their money for War Savings Stamps. That would have done some good.

K. of C. Victory Convention.

At the Victory Convention of the Knights of Columbus to be held in New York on August 6th and 7th, delegates from all over the country will obtain a personal insight into the magnitude of the work, for which the American public has given no less than $12,000,000, the larger part of which has already been expended. With the full program of work for the present year calling for a great multiplication of effort in every department, for large increase in personnel and scores of buildings, with the necessary equipment besides huge amounts of supplies, several times the millions spent during the first year will be required to maintain and extend the work on an efficient basis during the next twelve months. The budget, as at present outlined, calls for a sum of over $50,000,000, for the ensuing year—approximately one million dollars a week.

More Autos This Year.

Albany, July 15.—With the first five months of New York state's automobile year showing a 47 per cent increase in commercial cars over the same period in 1917, a 16 per cent increase in passenger cars and a 22 per cent increase of all types of motor vehicles, the Empire State is setting a new record in automobile registration and one that indicates 500,000 cars, 150,000 chauffeurs and $5,000,000 in receipts by the end of this year. The total registration of all types of cars in this state on July 1 was 423,853, or a gain of 73,813 over July 1, 1917.

Buy for Victory!

If you buy intelligently it naturally follows that you save and saving is going to help win this war.

However, intelligent buying doesn't mean getting a cheap article because of the low price. On the other hand it doesn't mean buying the highest priced article you can find.

It means striking a happy medium; paying just enough to get real quality.

That's what you do when you buy clothes of us. They're made of the best all-wool fabrics by Hart Schaffner & Marx; they're priced right and they're real quality.

You get the long wear and style that go with real quality and consequently you buy less. That's how you save.

VICTORY MENUS.

These menus, planned to conserve time, labor and space, and the foods that are scarce and use those of which there is an abundance, are Victory Menus in more senses than one. They are prepared by the Department of Home Economics and endorsed by the New York State Food Commission.

Tuesday.

Breakfast—Baked apples. Hominy grits, hot milk. Potato cakes, coffee substitutes.

Lunch or Supper—Eggs a la Goldengrind. Stuffed potatoes. Sliced fruit.

Dinner—Broiled fish steaks. Parsley potatoes. Spinach, buttered. Rice custard with prunes.

*May be omitted and still leave a balanced meal.

Milk for the children to drink at each meal.

Custom has relegated fish to Friday but conservation is giving this splendid food more and more a place in the menus of other days.

This is as it should be for fish, while an excellent and delicious substitute for meat, does not eat up the grains of the land but feeds itself and may be had for the catching. Use fish several times a week.

Stuffed Potatoes.

Cut baked potatoes in half, remove the pulp, wash it, add enough milk for the usual consistency of mashed potatoes, and season with butter, salt and pepper. Fill the cases with this mixture, dot the tops with butter or brush them with milk, and bake them for 8 or 10 minutes in a hot oven. Potatoes may be stuffed in the morning and heated at noon or in the evening for dinner.

Variations—To the mashed potatoes before the cases are filled may be added any one or a combination of the following:

a. Beaten white of egg (1 egg to 3 medium-sized potatoes.)

b. Grated cheese (½ cup to 3 medium-sized potatoes.)

c. Chopped meat (½ cup to 3 medium-sized potatoes.)

d. Chopped parsley (1 tablespoon to 3 medium-sized potatoes.)

Rice Custard With Prunes.

Make a boiled custard from 2 cups milk, 3 eggs yolks and enough sugar to sweeten. When thickened, add 1 cup cooked rice. In a baking dish place a layer of stoned prunes, cover with the custard mixture, make a meringue from the two egg whites, place on top and bake until it is brown.

Recipes for any of the dishes in these menus which cannot be found in cook books, may be had by writing to the Department of Home Economics, State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

Modest Fish Story.

Everett Blanchan, the good natured advertising manager of the Kingston Freeman, is telling his friends of the exceptionally good luck he had on his fishing trip to Cold Brook on Saturday last. He does not mention weights of any one particular fish but judging from the way he talks he had to tow the load home. He said it only the bait, lasted out the catch would have been bigger. They were biting great for if he did not get the lines over fast enough the fish just jumped out the water and up the bank to the bait pail.

Reading was one of the weakest, declining 1 1/2 to 87 1/2. Corn products after opening 1/2 higher at 43 1/4, dropped to 42 1/4. Baldwin fell to 85 1/4, a loss of 2 1/4. Connie Meant Business.

Connie takes very practical views of her parents' promises. The other day, to silence a fit of crying, her mother promised her a new doll. "What shall we call her, Connie?" she said, taking the little girl on her knee. "Never mind her name, mamma," cried Connie, looking at her mother out of the corner of her eye. "We'll find a name for her when—when she's buried."

ODDS AND ENDS.

All ladies desiring to join the first aid class in the Poughkeepsie district, to be taught by Dr. Day are requested to meet at the Garcia House Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock.

S. navy in which he enlisted a few weeks ago. The remainder of his vacation will be spent in Bloomingburg where he will visit his friend, Mr. Williams. Mr. Bullen's elder brother, Osborn, is now in France in a school of artillery and will probably soon join the fighting ranks.

Miss Mildred Benneway returned to her home in Poughkeepsie on Saturday. She was accompanied by Miss Dorothy Drake who was to remain as her guest for a week, but on Sunday morning a messenger was sent to bring Miss Dorothy home, her grandmother, Mrs. Alvah Drake, having been suddenly taken ill with erysipelas of the face. Fred and Albert Greco of Red Hook, with two young lady friends, spent Sunday here at the home of their parents.

The steady encroachment of industrial activity is destroying what little beauty (if any there was) that adorned the face of nature in this little hamlet in the days gone by. Sand hills removed and clay banks excavated and levelled have made some parts unrecognizable to an old time resident, and now that beautiful grove of tall pines and chestnuts on the northwest outskirts of the village, known as Maginnis' woods, where for many years picnics and dances were held that were attended and greatly enjoyed by all classes in the country round about, is being cut down and ruthlessly dragged away.

The breezes from the Catskills whispering through the branches of those stately pines, have sent their last sad requiem over departed joys and happy scenes of other days on the velvety carpet they spread beneath the grateful shade of their overlapping branches. Thus it is and thus it ever will be. Nothing endures. Change and decay on every side we see. Only when memory sweeps the harpstrings, of recollection can we catch the echo of happy voices that have long since been hushed in eternal silence.

On Friday afternoon at about six o'clock rather a slight shower passed over the locality of Accord when lightning struck the home of LeRoy Hoornbeck, who lived in what was formerly known as the Light house, about two miles from the village, near St. John. Mr. Hoornbeck was alone at home, his wife and five children having gone to Mettuchants to visit her father. As soon as the fire was discovered neighbors rushed to the home and found Mr. Hoornbeck lying dead in the door with his head beside him, also dead. Indications seemed to point that the deceased was standing in the door or passing in when the bolt struck him. The house and furniture were completely destroyed. Mr. Hoornbeck moved to St. John a few years ago from Leibhardt and rebuilt the house which was practically new. His wife, whose youngest child is scarcely six weeks old, before her marriage was Angie Krom, daughter of Andrew Krom of Mettuchants. The deceased was a member of Accord Lodge, Junior Order of Mechanics.

One Reason.

The reason some men are so careless is because they know they can get away with it by merely saying "Excuse me."

PATRIOTIC MASS MEETING.

Ellenville Holds Mass Meeting in Liberty Square.

One of the largest demonstrations for patriotism was exhibited in Ellenville Sunday evening at the mass meeting held at Liberty Square, when July 14th was made a day long to be remembered—a great national tribute to America's imperishable debt to France and to assure her by a convincing demonstration of America's determination to stand by her until peace shall have been achieved by victory—the spiritual solidarity of this country and France; the inspiration of France's heroism; the significance to us of our dead not and to come which will always remain a bond between the two Republics—this was the reason for the large gathering of people when it would seem that every man, woman and child of the village and surrounding villages were in attendance. Precisely at 7 o'clock Clayton's band played patriotic selections as the crowd gathered and at 7:30 o'clock the members of the village board, with the president of the village, Frank J. Potter, several of the citizens of the village and town, which included Hon. George M. Beebe, Hon. Thomas E. Benditt, Warden George Devo, Rev. George H. Smith, Rev. E. E. Count, D. D. Supervisor W. S. Doyle, ex-Superintendent W. K. Shook and others with the chairman of this meeting, Judge William D. Cunningham. The speakers of the evening were seated upon the platform, decorated with the Stars and Stripes and the flag of France, facing Canal street, while over the platform in the rear swung the breeze from the large flag pole, the American flag, and from another pole, a large Swiss flag with many stars, representing those in service from the village.

The meeting was called to order by Judge Cunningham, whose very presence at a gathering in Ellenville is sure to receive hearty applause, even though no utterances are given, but as he commenced his introduction and during the entire evening when he spoke very hearty applause was accorded him. The invocation was given by Dr. Count. This was followed by a rare treat for all the waiting crowd when Los Kamp, was introduced and rendered in beautiful voice with Mrs. Cunningham at the piano, that wonderful French hymn, "The Marseillaise," which was so well received with very hearty applause. The song greatly delighted and touched the heart of the entire audience.

Judge Cunningham, with well chosen words, introduced to the audience, the Hon. Francis M. Hugo, secretary of the state, who was to address the people at this time and he followed and greatly delighted the large audience with his very able address, which embraced much of the history of France and his patriotic utterances for France and our own beloved country, invoked during the address and at its conclusion, very hearty and well merited applause and we voice the sentiment of the speaker's words: A determination to support France until peace shall have been achieved by victory. He closed his address with the words of Longfellow's memorable poem, "Sail on Thou Ship of State," "Sail on."

Judge Cunningham's remarks in closing paid a high tribute to the soldiers and sailors in service from our country, our state, our county and our village and for a moment asked all to stand silent with bowed heads in reverence. Miss Los Kamp lead the audience in singing "The Star Spangled Banner" and the meeting closed with benediction by Dr. Count.

THE PRODIGAL SON

By AUGUSTUS G. SHERWIN.

(Copyright, 1915, by Western Newspaper Union.)

He was a man of whims and impulse apparently, for he was almost childishly engrossed in viewing a pretty picture, of which a bright, attractive-looking girl was the center. She was just inside the fence of a clover field and was daintily picking the luscious red tops. Then she would go to the separating barbed wire fence, reach through and pet, converse with and feed a white-speckled calf, plump, friendly and spotless of grime or brier.

"I've an idea—the fatted calf!" abruptly chuckled the onlooker. "Almost as pretty as the girl," and he approached the fence near which Hilda Strong stood.

"Part of the big farm a bit back where they're selling out?" he asked. The girl, quite startled, flushed and fluttered and gave a confused assent. "I'll take that calf if the figure is right," resumed the stranger.

"But Whittier is not for sale," announced Hilda. "She does not belong to the farm. Mr. Warren gave her to me when she was the tiniest little thing and I have raised her."

"You wouldn't sell her, then?" "Oh, no! Never! That is—unless I had to. And maybe that may come," said Hilda, a mournful shadow crossing her pretty face. "Mr. Warren is breaking up and I must look for a new home. I am an orphan and have only a few distant relatives."

Her artless charm aroused Bart Miller and her simple ways aroused his sympathy and interest.

"Hello!" he uttered. "We're pretty near of a kind. I've been an orphan myself for ten years—that is, I ran away from home and haven't seen father or mother since."

"Oh, dear! how could you stay away from them?" chided Hilda.

"Well, I got going careless and rough and bad. Then in trouble, and finally I settled down to life among the hardest crowd a ranch ever knew. It was cards, drink and fighting most of the time."

Hilda had shrunk a little at the confession. "You don't look very careless, and rough, and bad," she said. He laughed quite boisterously at her innocence.

"I'm not—now. That's why I'm going back home."

"Oh, are you? Are you?" cried Hilda, sprightly. "How glad your folks will be to see you

St. Remy, July 15—Farmers have commenced their harvest.

The whole receipts of the ice cream social last Thursday night were $19.75. These parties are well attended and the entertainments well worth hearing. There are recitations and singing and a good time in general.

Several from this place attended the services at Dashville Sunday afternoon.

Newman Hunt of New York city spent Sunday with his family in this village.

Mrs. Edgar Ellsworth is spending some time at Mt. Meenahga.

The Red Cross meetings are well attended each week and 50 comfort kits have been completed and sent in to headquarters, Kingston. There will be no meeting on Wednesday unless notice is posted in the post office.

Mr. and Mrs. John Freer attended the entertainment and social at Springtown last Wednesday night and report a fine time.

Advice for Letter Writers.

When sending a stamp in a letter instead of molesting one corner and sticking it to the paper, moisten a small spot in the center of the stamp and then affix it to your letter. The removal of a small part of the adhesive substance from the center in no way impairs the usefulness of the stamp; whereas it is often torn if the corner is fastened.

A REPORTER'S PRAYER.

DEAR LORD, I am but an old-fashioned reporter, very much of a hack and unskilled in the ways of the literary fellows, albeit I do know the true meaning of several words of our common tongue. Away back in my Pennsylvania hills, in the valley where the bald eagle makes his nest, was I reared, and there brought up in the stern ways of that faith which, by Thy grace, I still hold firm as to soundness. There also had I instilled into me a love of country and devotion to American ideals which are, thanks to Thee, a very large part of my being. True, true, I have frequently in the past slipped on slippery paths, knowingly. Even now in the grey years do I offend nor feel sufficient repentance for the offence. Yet dare I pray, and this my prayer:

NEVER let me a quitter be! Awake or asleep, at work or play, may I never have thoughts of Peace and ever be impatient and even suspicious of those who talk of, pray for, or preach on anything contrary to a complete and lasting victory for the united arms of my country and its associates. Let me be always young of heart, cheerful, hopeful with the hopefulness born of national faith, constantly attuned to the spirit of the Republic, so that no throb of its great heart shall find mine unresponsive. Keep me always so primed for the fight that he may know and understand the American father never expects the son to dare and to do for country what the father himself is not ready and eager to do and to dare. Lastly, Lord, no matter what may be my personal thoughts, however difficult of understanding some things are, let me be generous enough to shove my hand into that of an Englishman and tell him I am glad to recognize as a truth of current history that the English know how to die; how to die, dear Lord, in defense of their own and of another man's home; how to die for those sacred principles to maintain which my country jumped into a uniform and pledged its soul to fight side by side with the English and the French, the Belgian and the Italian, the Arab and the Moor. Amen.

ROAST BEEF APPETITES AND BEEFLESS MENUS

If you make up your mind that you would like roast beef or a steak for lunch, enter a restaurant and find that there are no beef dishes on the menu, don't feel that you are abused. You will find other meat dishes just as tasty and nourishing on the list. If you feel tempted to rebel, just stop for a moment to consider the plight of Italy, one of America's comrades in the war, who is doing such splendid work driving back the Austrian invaders. So grave has the food situation become in Italy that three meatless—not just beefless, or just porkless, or just muttonless days, but all three—that is, meatless days, have been in effect since May 15. While Italy is not such a heavy meat-eating nation as some of her Allies, nevertheless the three meatless days a week come particularly hard at this time because the consumption of grain has been also cut down. Bread and macaroni form two of the principal foods of the Italian people, and the consumption in these foods is now about one-quarter less than last year. While the sacrifice you make when you take some other meat dish in place of beef may not mean much to you, it does mean a great deal to our Allies, who are depending upon us partly for their beef supply.

FEEDING A SOLDIER IN YOUR HOME AND IN TRENCH

Our hats off to Texas, the largest state in the Union. Since April 15 the saving of wheat in that state has amounted to nearly 15,000,000 pounds of flour, or enough to feed the Texas boys in the National Army, the regular Army, the Navy and Marine Corps for an entire year. This is the spirit which will win the war. Think of this, if you are one of the persons who sometimes feel a regret that the so-called War Bread has replaced the white bread since America entered the world struggle for democracy and freedom. Here's another thought: Suppose you were dining in your home with a soldier and there were two slices of War Bread and two slices of white bread on the platter, which kind of bread would you want the soldier to have? The white bread, of course! In fact, you would insist that he take it and would feel insulted if he refused. How gladly, then, should you sacrifice white bread for the American soldier who is 3,000 miles away in the trenches and the soldiers of the other liberty loving nations with whom he is fighting shoulder to shoulder!

EAT LESS SUGAR AND YOU'LL BE HEALTHIER

Learn to eat less sugar. This means YOU! Too much sugar is injurious to the health, and Americans eat more sugar than any other nationality in the world. YOU can reduce your sugar consumption in many ways. Use less in your tea and coffee and STIR IT MORE. Thousands of tons are wasted annually in the bottom of the cup—sugar which is never dissolved. Put less sugar on your cereal in the morning—most cereals have their natural sweetness. Don't turn pie, which is meant to be a food, into a confection by heaping sugar on it. Some sugar-lovers even put sugar on cantaloupes. This is like sprinkling sugar on candy, for cantaloupes contain a high percentage of natural sweetening. Our Allies in the war need all the sugar we can spare, and every spoonful YOU save helps to supply this need.

P. S.—If you doubt that eating sugar in large quantities is positively harmful to your health, ASK YOUR FAMILY PHYSICIAN.

FOOD QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Second installment of a Popular Catechism of Food Doctrine.

Why is bread cheaper in England? Because the British government has subsidized the bread.

How much does it cost the British government? $200,000,000 annually.

Is not this money ultimately obtained by taxation? Yes.

Is corn bread used in the army? Corn is not acceptable as an army ration because it cannot be made into a transportable loaf for trench use.

Are other cereals just as nourishing as wheat? Generally speaking, yes.

NOW TO HARVEST HAY AND GRAINS

Many Orders For Help in Hands of Chairman Crosby—Men Who Responded to Field Needs First Month.

The relief given to many farmers by the volunteers sent out through the Chamber of Commerce brings back many appreciative expressions from those whose fields have been worked.

More than one employer of farm hands has stated that the Kingston volunteers have saved his crops. The threatening weather with rain at intervals, cold and cloudy, has set back the work on the farms.

The last of cultivating corn and potatoes was reached with the end of the week and so far as can be ascertained this enrollment of volunteers has been the means of saving several fields. In one place it was stated by the farmer that without this help he would have lost a large field of corn.

The farmers are getting at work in their grain. But this is backward on account of the weather. It would be a blessing to many if clear hot weather could be had this week.

In some cases they have started cutting their rye but have had to knock off work because of rain. The fields are ready, the growth of crops is heavy and Chairman Crosby has plenty of workers to draw on.

The enrollment published in The Freeman supply the problem of Commerce activity. That more were not employed on the farms since the volunteer labor was obtained is not the fault of the system.

The harvests now beginning will doubtless draw on this supply. Orders are in the hands of Chairman Crosby but they cannot be filled until the men are wanted which is to be decided by weather conditions only.

Here is the roll of honor—farmers who drew on the Chamber of Commerce, the dates, employment, those who responded and who furnished automobiles:

Changes in Modern Face.
The tendency of the modern face, according to Prof. James Keith, lecturer on anthropology at the Royal Institute, London, England, is to become wedge-shaped, with a longer, narrower and more prominent nose. From lineages above the eyes are disappearing, and the brow is becoming smooth and of an even contour. These changes in the human face, declared the scientist, are due to changes in methods of mastication from the earlier days of the human race.

CROSSING TRACKS;
HIT BY A TRAIN

Vergilio Licini Tried to Cross in Front of Cars Being Switched Near O'Neil Street Crossing Saturday—Died Later in Hospital.

Vergilio Licini, an Italian, who was employed by John J. Cuneo for the past fifteen years, died Saturday afternoon about 6 o'clock at the Kingston City Hospital of injuries received when struck by a train on the Ulster & Delaware Railroad near the O'Neil street crossing.

From what could be seen, the switch engine in charge of Conductor L. Egbertson and Engineer Frank Tongue was busy switching some cars about one hundred and twenty-five feet below the O'Neil street crossing onto a side switch Saturday afternoon. Licini attempted to cross the tracks in front of the moving cars and was struck.

The city ambulance was summoned and removed the injured man to the Kingston City Hospital, where he died later from internal injuries. The body was taken in charge by the undertaking firm of Grogan & Scherer.

Trial by Ordeal.

If a theft takes place in a Japanese household, all servants are required to write a certain word with the same brush. The consequence is supposed to be that the ideographs written, tracing an ideograph involves such an effort of muscular directness and undivided attention that this device often leads to the discovery of the guilty party. The test is, at all events, more humane than the ordeal of boiling water, to which accused persons were formerly submitted in Japan.

SUPT. ANDERSON
ASSAILS LEWIS

Albany, July 15.—William H. Anderson, superintendent of the New York State Anti-Saloon League, today challenged Attorney General Merton E. Lewis to debate his attitude on prohibition and the relation of his "campaign to the schemes of the brewers." Mr. Anderson sets the debate between August 1 and August 15 in Carnegie Hall, New York city, and in suitable halls in Albany, Utica, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo.

Anderson accuses Mr. Lewis of being in league with the brewing interests in his fight for the Republican nomination for governor.

FRENCH SCENERY.

Appeals to Private Mosher, Who Writes Friend Here.

Co. L. Amer. Ex. Force, Somewhere in France.
Dear Sir:—Just a line to let you know I am well, and in the best of spirits as the trip did not do any harm to me although it was very interesting and we saw some scenery, but the States are good enough for me. One thing about France is the people are very quiet and old but very polite. One good thing about this place is we can have all the light beer and wines we want but I will say the wines are nothing like yours. It is something like pure chard and Rhine wine but much milder. I would much rather have one bottle of today than four bottles of the wine we get here. If I could get today over here I could get ten francs for it; as it is we pay four francs for it which is 80 cents in American money.

One thing there are plenty of places to get wines and beer over here as about every four or five places are selling it and it is sold in private houses with a little bar about three feet long and no men bartenders, all lady.

One thing over here is that everything is very scarce, especially sugar. Chocolate is 42 cents a bar and no ice cream at all and most of the laboring is done by the women. Women in fields and factories.
The one thing about the trip that would interest you is the scene of coming up the (deleted). They are very beautiful. In fact all of the scenery is beautiful. Grape vineyards all along our trip. Well, not being able to tell you any more about our trip or where we are, I will bring this short letter to a close, hoping a speedy answer. I will close wishing you and your mother good luck and the best of wishes. I remain yours truly.

GEORGE W. MOSHER.
P. S.—Please give my regards to Mr. and Mrs. George Pierce and Fred Olcott. Thanking you in advance,
GEORGE
Co. L, 310th Inf. Amer. Ex. F.

Miss Alice Roach, who spent a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. John McDermott, in Brooklyn, has returned to her home on Tilden street.

The Misses Sarah and Elizabeth Guinan of New York city, are spending their vacation at their home on Tilden street.

The regular monthly meeting of the Missionary Society of the Reformed Church, will be held Tuesday afternoon, July 16th, at 3 o'clock, at the home of Miss Mary C. Ellsworth on Salem street.

A high class entertainment will be given by Mr. Fredenburgh, organist, Miss Georgiana Clavin, elocutionist, and William Williams, soloist, of Kingston, July 16th, in the Reformed Church, under the auspices of the Dorcas Society. A silver offering will be taken for the benefit of the Port Ewen Auxiliary of the Red Cross.

Port Ewen Lodge, No. 556, I. O. O. F., will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in their rooms in Pythian Hall. District Deputy Grand Master Alexander Johnson and staff of officers of Sauxteries, will be present to install the officers. All members are requested to be present.

Exempt Council, No. 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, will meet Wednesday evening, July 17th, in their rooms in Spinnewebber's Hall.

Keep in mind the entertainment to be given Friday evening in the chapel of the Methodist Church under the direction of Miss Helen French Page, for the benefit of the Adult Bible class.

The services in the Methodist Church Sunday evening, were of a patriotic nature. The pastor, Rev. Eugene A. Bookhout gave a short sermon filled with patriotic spice and paid homage to France in commemoration of "Bastille Day." At the close of the first part eight young ladies from Ulster Park gave a military drill, singing together the Star Spangled Banner and closing with a pantomime. They presented a fine appearance crowned with "Old Glory" and acted their several nations in a very becoming and attractive manner. Harold Story accompanied the ladies as pianist. At the close of the exercises America was sung with vim and enthusiasm by the large audience assembled.

OUR TWENTY-FIRST BIRTHDAY

Just a word to express our appreciation for the support and patronage we have received during 21 years of business life.

We frequently hear people say "I have bought nearly everything I needed at this store ever since it started." Others say "I didn't know there was such a store in Rondout. I'm glad I came and you'll see me again soon."

Our growth year after year has been steady and substantial. Starting our twenty-second page of business history we can truly say we'll do our best to serve you faithfully with good merchandise at the lowest possible prices. We believe Kingston has a large future. The Rondout section has awakened to new life and activities scarcely dreamed of during the years of peaceful slumber.

We're just beginning to realize our possibilities, the future depends upon our own efforts. With everybody working and all boosting the coming years will be the best ever.

marched by to entrain for Mission. Texas. The young captain silently bemoaned the fact that, instead of going to the border for the intensive training which so improved the conformation of the National Guard under regular army tutelage, he was forced by his orders to remain in the up-state camp, with the more or less dull routine of caring for supplies.

As the 69th marched by the captain confided to a correspondent, who had been accredited to the New York regiment, that he would rather handle such men as he saw passing by than any other regiment in the world.

These are the fellows who can be taught the art of war," he said. "they would follow their commanders through any hell. Though F. O'Ryan and announced that he had come in response to orders from Washington to take command of the 69th Regiment. The 69th Regiment returned from the border one of the best drilled and equipped regiments in the National Guard. They were "all for their colonel." He was a "regular guy from the ground up."

When the United States declared war on Germany, the temporary command of the 69th became chief of staff to the major general commanding Camp Upton. J. Franklin Bell. Then he went to France. The other day word was received that William N. Haskell had been returned as lieutenant colonel to his old command, the 165th Regiment of the Rainbow Division, formerly the 69th Infantry, N. G. N. Y. "Major Haskell," said the report, "commanded the 69th Regiment during its border service in 1916."—New York Times.

BRONY KOSLOWSKI'S FRACTURED SKULL

He Received It Sunday While Attempting to Escape From Randall's Island — Is in Hospital Charged With Felonious Assault.

Brony Koslowski of No. 169 Murray street, is in the Harlem Hospital in New York city with a fractured skull received Sunday in attempting to escape from Randall's Island, where he had been committed December 7, 1917, by Recorder Lang on a charge of petit larceny.

The New York Sun, in reporting the incident, says: "Brony Koslowski, a powerful Polish youth, made an attempt to escape Sunday from the House of Refuge on Randall's Island. With a fractured skull he is now a patient at the Harlem Hospital charged with felonious assault, while Keeper Fitzgerald, who prevented his escape, is at the island hospital with four bad scalp wounds. Sunday night the prisoner pried open the door of his cell. He lurked in the corridor until the keeper passed on his rounds. There the young Pole followed him with a club. Fitzgerald, after a fight, took the weapon from the prisoner. Then he knocked Koslowski down with it and ended the attempted escape."

Brony, who is 17 years old, is a bad actor. Last December he was arrested with another young man on the complaint of Edward M. Gallagher, charged with stealing three inner automobile tubes and some tools. The arrest was made by Sergeant Hanley and Sergeant Phinney. Brony was sentenced to Randall's Island by Recorder Lang.

On April 5 of last year Brony was arrested at the request of Superior, resident of Police Redgate of Bridgeport, Conn., where he was wanted on a charge of stealing goods from a room made valued at $125. Later Mr. Redgate telegraphed to Recorder Lang that the complaining witness had left the state. Brony was then arraigned and discharged with a warning.

Even before that he had been in trouble. He was mixed up in a fur robbery down town some time ago. Sunday evening local police headquarters received a telegram from New York asking them to notify Brony's friends that he was in the Harlem Hospital with a fractured skull.

If Brony recovers from his wound, in the hospital he will have to stand trial on the charge preferred against him of felonious assault, and it found guilty it will likely mean a term in Sing Sing.

ULSTER PARK CONCERT.

Judge Parker to Address Union Patriotic Meeting Sunday.

A patriotic address by Judge Alton B. Parker will be the feature of the concert to be given by the Port Ewen Soldiers of Song in the Reformed Church at Ulster Park on Sunday evening, July 28. In addition to the 36 portraits of soldiers and sailors from the town of Esopus shown at the recent K. of P. patriotic meetings in Port Ewen, there will be at least 30 additional portraits of Esopus men in the service of their country shown at the Ulster Park concert. Anyone having a photograph of a town of Esopus soldier or sailor should send it at once to the Rev. C. Van Oostenburg or George Prophet at Ulster Park in order that the lantern slides may be made in time.

The Ulster Park meeting will be under the auspices of the Reformed Church, Ulster Grange, Garfield Lodge of Odd Fellows, and the O. U. A. M. of Ulster Park, the P. O. S. of A. and Red Men of Esopus and Hope Lodge, K. of P. of Port Ewen.

A copy of "I Want to be a Soldier, Boy, and Fight for Uncle Sam," Mr. Prophet's great patriotic song, will be presented to each lady in attendance.

The small stretch of road on West Union street between Post street and Broadway, has also been laid with white.

Today the men were busy laying white around The Freeman block on Perry street and Canal street.

Last week the board of public works received 8,000 gallons of street oil, which is being spread on the streets of the city.

AUTO CASES MANY IN POLICE COURT

Two Cars Came Together on Down Street—Another Car Ran Wild on Sidewalk—Some Arrested for Speeding.

James Fouby, a young man of Shandaken, was arrested by Officer Hess for reckless driving. The young man drove his Ford car around the corner of Fair and John streets cutting the corner and running up on the sidewalk, knocking down the bicycle stand in front of the Western Union Telegraph office on John street, and ran into one of Miller's taxicabs.

This morning the young man claimed the accident was due to the fact that his "reversing gear stuck." When questioned as to how many accidents he had been in before, he said that last month a man had run in front of his auto at the corner of Broadway and Strand, but that witnesses had absolved him of blame for the accident.

He was fined $5 with a warning by the court to be more careful in the future.

Cars Collide On Downs St.

Sunday evening, an auto, driven by DeWitt Freer, of New Salem, ran into a car driven by Mrs. Emma Jagger of Downs street. She immediately arrested young Freer on a charge of reckless driving, and the case came up for a hearing in police court this morning before Judge Schirick, at which time Freer entered a plea of not guilty and the hearing was adjourned until Wednesday morning.

From what could be learned, both cars were proceeding out Downs street. Near the Jagger residence, Mrs. Jagger turned in toward the driveway and was hit by the Freer car. She claimed she had signaled she was going to turn in. It is understood Freer claimed she did not signal. No one was injured, but both cars were damaged by the collision.

Speeders Arrested.

Thomas W. Moffitt, of New York city, was arrested by Officer Martin on a charge of violation of the traffic law. He put up a cash bail for his appearance in court today.

Allan Zimmerman was arrested by Officer Healey on Saturday for driving past a trolley car discharging passengers. He was fined $5.

A. B. Chase of Newark was arrested by Officer Walker, the motorcycle cop, for driving his car at 35 miles an hour on Albany avenue, Saturday. He was fined $2 by the court.

Clifford R. Vellis, superintendent of state forestry, was arrested Sunday by Officer Walker charged with running his car at 38 miles an hour on Albany avenue. He was found guilty after a trial and fined $3.

Five hospitals were enlarged in June and two additional navy hospitals were established. Five convalescent homes for both officers and men were established also. The army canteens are now being operated on the French front and there are innumerable itinerant canteens operating on the American front and along the lines of communication. Some serve as many as 2,000 meals daily.

POLICE SIGNAL SYSTEM WORKED

An Auto That Had Struck Another Auto and Refused to Stop Was Caught at City Line by Officer Soper.

Sunday afternoon police headquarters was asked to apprehend a big red Marmon touring car that had struck another car at Shokan and instead of stopping had driven on toward Kingston. The signal system was brought into action with the result that Officer Soper caught the Marmon car as it was entering Kingston and held it until the car that had been hit reached Kingston where an amicable adjustment was made for the damages and the Marmon then proceeded on its way to New York.

The Marmon car was owned by Harry Burger and driven by a colored chauffeur named Ernest Brown. It struck the car owned by R. C. Morris of Hartford, Conn. It ripped off the running board and lighting system and narrowly escaped hitting a woman sitting in the rear seat of the car that was struck.

Mr. Morris was profuse in his praise of the results obtained by the police signal system and the quick work of Officer Soper in locating the Marmon car.

HIT BY A TRAIN

Vergilio Licini Tried to Cross in Front of Cars Being Switched Near O'Neil Street Crossing Saturday—Died Later in Hospital.

Vergilio Licini, an Italian, who was employed by John J. Cuneo for the past fifteen years, died Saturday afternoon about 6 o'clock at the Kingston City Hospital of injuries received when struck by a train on the O'Neil street crossing.

From what could be learned the switch engine in charge of Conductor L. Egbertson and Engineer Frank Tongue was busy switching some cars about one hundred and twenty-five feet below the O'Neil street crossing onto a side switch Saturday afternoon. Licini attempted to cross the tracks in front of the moving cars and was struck.

The city ambulance was summoned and removed the injured man to the Kingston City Hospital, where he died later from internal injuries. The body was taken in charge by the undertaking firm of Grogan & Scherer.

Trial by Ordeal.

If a theft takes place in a Japanese household, all servants are required to write a certain word with the same brush. The conscience is supposed to betray its workings in the waves of the ideographs written. Tracing an ideograph involves such an effort of muscular directness and undivided attention that this device often leads to the discovery of the guilty party. The test is, at all events, more humane than the ordeal of boiling water, to which accused persons were formerly submitted in Japan.

ASSAILS LEWIS

Albany, July 15.—William H. Anderson, superintendent of the New York State Anti-Saloon League, today challenged Attorney General Merton E. Lewis to debate his attitude on prohibition and the relation of his "campaign to the schemes of the brewers." Mr. Anderson sets the date between August 1 and August 15 in Carnegie Hall, New York city, and in suitable halls in Albany, Utica, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo.

Anderson accuses Mr. Lewis of being in league with the brewing interests in his fight for the Republican nomination for governor.

FRENCH SCENERY.

Appeals to Private Musher, Who Writes Friend Here.

Co. L, Amer. Ex. Force, Somewhere in France.

Dear Sir:—Just a line to let you know I am well, and in the best of spirits as the trip did not do any harm to me although it was very interesting and we saw some scenery, but the States are good enough for me. One thing about France is the people are very quiet and old but very polite. One good thing about this place is we can have all the light beer and wines we want but I will say the wines are nothing like yours. It is something like pure claret and Rhine wine but much milder. I would much rather have one bottle of tokay than four bottles of the wine we get here. If I could get tokay over here I could get ten francs for it; as it is we pay four francs for it, which is 80 cents in American money.

One thing there are plenty of places to get wines and beer over here as about every four or five places are selling it and it is sold in private houses with a little bar about three feet long and no men bartenders, all lady.

One thing over here is that everything is very scarce, especially sugar. Chocolate is 42 cents a bar and no ice cream at all and most of the laboring is done by the women. Women in fields and factories.

The one thing about the trip that would interest you is the scene of coming up the (deleiled). They are very beautiful. In fact all of the scenery is beautiful. Grape vineyards all along our trip. Well, not being able to tell you any more about our trip or where we are, I will bring this short letter to a close, hoping a speedy answer. I will close wishing you and your mother good luck and the best of wishes. I remain yours truly.

Espous Council, No. 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, will meet Wednesday evening, July 17th, in their rooms in Spinnwebber's Hall.

Keep in mind the entertainment to be given Friday evening in the chapel of the Methodist Church under the direction of Miss Helen French. Page, for the benefit of the Adult Bible class.

The services in the Methodist Church Sunday evening, were of a patriotic nature. The pastor, Rev. Eugene A. Bookhout gave a short sermon filled with patriotic spirit and paid homage to France in commemoration of "Bastille Day." At the close of the first part eight young ladies from Uster Park gave a military drill, singing together the Star Spangled Banner and closing with a pantomime. They presented a fine appearance crowned with "Old Glory" and acted their several nations in a very becoming and attractive manner. Harold Story accompanied the ladies as pianist. At the close of the exercises America was sung with vim and enthusiasm by the large audience assembled.

HASKELL'S FAITH IN 69TH.

Regular Army Officer Saw Bright Future for Regiment in 1916.

Persons who remember the departure of the old 69th Regiment from Camp Whitman for the border in July, 1916, recall that the camp quartermaster at Whitman, an alert young captain in the regular army, was one of the most interested spectators as the "Fighting Irish"

marched by to entrain for Mission Texas. The young captain silently bemoaned the fact that, instead of going to the border for the intensive training which so improved the condition of the National Guard under regular army tutelage, he was forced by his orders to remain in the up-state camp, with the more or less dull routine of caring for supplies.

As the 69th marched by the captain confided to a correspondent, who had been accredited to the New York regiment, that he would rather handle such men as he saw passing by than any other regiment in the world.

"These are the fellows who can be taught the art of war," he said. "They would follow their commanders through any hell. Though they are in the National Guard, nearly every man in his outfit is the regular army type. I'd rather command this regiment than any other I know of. I wish I could get to the border."

When the 69th Regiment reached the border its colonel, an old member of the National Guard, was relieved of his command through physical disability. Then for several weeks the senior major of the regiment was in command. The personnel, to say the least, were brought up over the sudden discharge of their old commander. They were not at once disposed to treat kindly the "interference" of the regular army in their affairs.

One day the alert young captain, who had been camp quartermaster at Whitman, presented himself at the headquarters of Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan and announced that he had come in response to orders from Washington to take command of the 69th Regiment. The 69th Regiment returned from the border one of the best drilled and equipped regiments in the National Guard. They were "all for their colonel." He was a "regular guy from the ground up."

When the United States declared war on Germany, the temporary colonel of the 69th became chief of staff to the major general commanding Camp Upton. I. Franklin Bell. Then he went to France. The other day word was received that William N. Haskell had been returned as lieutenant colonel to his old command, the 165th Regiment of the Rainbow Division, formerly the 69th Infantry, N. G. N. Y. "Major Haskell," said the report, "commanded the 69th Regiment during its border service in 1916."—New York Times.

OUR TWENTY-FIRST BIRTHDAY

Just a word to express our appreciation for the support and patronage we have received during 21 years of business life.

We frequently hear people say "I have bought nearly everything I needed at this store ever since it started." Others say "I didn't know there was such a store in Rondout. I'm glad I came and you'll see me again soon."

Our growth year after year has been steady and substantial. Starting our twenty-second page of business history we can truly say we'll do our best to serve you faithfully with good merchandise at the lowest possible prices. We believe Kingston has a large future. The Rondout section has awakened to new life and activities scarcely dreamed of during the years of peaceful slumber.

We're just beginning to realize our possibilities, the future depends upon our own efforts. With everybody working and all boosting the coming years will be the best ever.
